

CONTENT

1. Introduction	8
2. Marketing paradigms and Marketing's orientation	9
3. Marketing and the firm: organisation	12
4. Knowledge generation as a basis for operationalization	15
4.1 Specific knowledge	15
4.2 Generalizable knowledge	16
5. Data collection as a basis for operationalization	18
6. Model-based decision making	22
6.1 Brief review	22
6.2 Important developments in the past decade (2000-2010)	23
6.2.1 Applications	23
6.2.2 Methodologies	26
7. Conclusion and discussion	30
Remarks	33
References	34