

Contents

Acknowledgements .....	vii
Authors and affiliations .....	ix
Preface .....	1
Part 1. The value of botanical monography
Chapter 1. Importance of the botanical monograph Tod F. Stuessy .....	7
Chapter 2. Monography and biodiversity studies Ghilleen T. Prance .....	15
Part 2. Data and analysis in monographic work
Chapter 3. The significance of fieldwork in monographic studies David M. Spooner .....	25
Chapter 4. Multiple sources of comparative data for creative monography Tod F. Stuessy .....	33
Chapter 5. DNA barcoding and systematic monographs W. John Kress .....	49
Chapter 6. Multivariate morphometrics and its application to monography at specific and infraspecific levels Karol Marhold .....	73
Part 3. Literature and nomenclature for monographic research
Chapter 7. Literature and online resources for monographers Christiane Anderson .....	103
Chapter 8. Modern botanical illustration H. Walter Lack .....	121
Chapter 9. The need for nomenclature for precise communication Nicholas Turland .....	139
Chapter 10. Botanical Latin today H. Walter Lack .....	179
Part 4. Perspectives
Chapter 11. From manuscript to the public: Modes of monographic publication Wm. Wayt Thomas & Barbara M. Thiers .....	193
Chapter 12. The future of botanical monography Tod F. Stuessy & H. Walter Lack .....	205
Indexes .....	217