

Contents

| | |
|------------------------------|---------|
| List of illustrations | page xi |
| Acknowledgments | xii |

Introduction: American literary realism 1

Chapter 1 Literary precursors, literary contexts 8

| | |
|---|----|
| Authorship in nineteenth-century America | 9 |
| Hawthorne, art, and literary romance | 10 |
| Sentimental fiction | 13 |
| Manliness and the realist critique of romance | 15 |
| Realism's debts to romance | 19 |
| American and European realisms | 23 |

Chapter 2 The "look of agony" and everyday middle-class life: three transitional works 26

| | |
|---|----|
| Writing the factory: "Life in the Iron Mills" | 27 |
| Writing the Civil War: Miss Ravenel's Conversion from Secession to Loyalty | 32 |
| Writing the ordinary: Their Wedding Journey | 35 |

Chapter 3 Creating the "odour" of the real: techniques of realism 41

| | |
|----------------------|----|
| The "air of reality" | 42 |
|----------------------|----|

| | |
|---|-----|
| Solidity of specification | 43 |
| Realist stories, realist discourse | 46 |
| Direct quotation: letting characters speak for themselves | 49 |
| Omniscient vs. point-of-view narration | 50 |
| Free-indirect discourse | 53 |
| Narrator as imperfect historian | 55 |
| | |
| Chapter 4 Conflicting manners: high realism and social competition | 58 |
| Manners and cultural prestige | 60 |
| How to display wealth | 65 |
| Money, gender, and taste in Edith Wharton's The House of Mirth | 67 |
| "Superior distinction" | 69 |
| Ethnography and realism | 73 |
| | |
| Chapter 5 "Democracy in literature"? Literary regionalism | 74 |
| Regionalism, dialect, and the "folk" | 76 |
| Locals and cosmopolitans in a changing nation | 78 |
| Regionalism's implied reader | 80 |
| Searching for the picturesque | 84 |
| Critical controversy: Sarah Orne Jewett and women's regionalism | 87 |
| | |
| Chapter 6 "The blab of the pave": realism and the city | 95 |
| The "other" half | 97 |
| Howells's Hazard | 100 |
| Urban poverty, middle-class rationalization, and self-criticism | 103 |
| People of the streets: Maggie's slums | 106 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| Chapter 7 Crisis of agency: literary naturalism, economic change, and "masculinity" | 114 |
| Naturalism and determinism | 116 |
| Naturalism's historical and intellectual contexts | 118 |
| Naturalism and consumer culture: the case of Dreiser's Sister Carrie | 121 |
| Naturalism and masculinity | 124 |
| The sissy and the wolf | 128 |
| | |
| Chapter 8 "Certain facts of life": realism and feminism | 134 |
| Realism and the New Woman | 136 |
| Feminist realisms: the "facts" of female lives | 137 |
| Gothic realities: "The Yellow Wallpaper" | 138 |
| Corporeal realities: The Awakening | 142 |
| Whiteness and The Awakening | 146 |
| A different reality: Contending Forces | 148 |
| | |
| Chapter 9 "The unjust spirit of caste": realism and race | 154 |
| The post-Reconstruction South | 155 |
| Chesnutt's revision of plantation fiction | 157 |
| The powers of conjure | 160 |
| Twain, Huck, and realism | 163 |
| Huckleberry Finn and the Jim question | 166 |
| Challenging Judge Lynch: The Marrow of Tradition | 169 |
| | |
| Chapter 10 New Americans write realism | 173 |
| Abraham Cahan: immigrant realism | 176 |
| Sui Sin Far: combating exclusion and exoticization | 180 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| Zitkala-Ša: resisting the “civilizing machine” | 185 |
| Américo Paredes: border realism/border modernism | 190 |
| Conclusion: realisms after realism | 195 |
| Notes | 200 |
| Works cited | 204 |
| Index | 216 |