

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	ix
Note on Language	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Introduction	1
1 Harem Travellers	12
Selling the harem	12
Zeyneb Hanım and Melek Hanım	19
Demetra Vaka Brown	24
Halide Edib	36
Grace Ellison	42
2 Empire, Nation and Culture	53
The 'decline' of the Ottoman Empire	53
The Balkan wars, the First World War and the crisis of occupation	64
Who is the Oriental woman? Shifting notions of Ottoman subjecthood	69
Changes in women's social conditions	78
Literature, language and identity	84
Family networks, class and spatial location	90
3 Harem: The Limits of Emancipation	96
Rewriting the harem	96
The problems of the modern woman	102
The power of polygamy	108
Transitional femininities: making a space for women in the new republic	115
The price of freedom: class, slavery and concubinage	125
Looking East and looking West	135
4 Eroticised Bodies: Representing Other Women	142
Orientalism and Orientalisation	142
The strange loveliness of the Pre-Raphaelite woman	149
Performativity: sexualisation, racialisation and transculturation	164
Sapphism, difference and desire	168
5 Contested Behaviours, Gendered Spaces	178
Spatial relations and the place of the body	178
Haremised space: status and gender	182

Claiming space: territory, power and insurrection	191
Dressing to go out: veils and visibility	199
6 Dress Acts: The Shifting Significance of Clothes	206
Photography, pleasure and cross-cultural dressing	206
De-veiling: performing the Orient in Europe	222
Intercultural exchange: competing models	233
Fashioning alternative selves: cross-cultural dressing in East and West	243
Conclusion: Commodification, Time and Nostalgia: The Search for Authenticity	252
Bibliography	271
Index	287