

Contents

Preface xi

Acknowledgments xv

1 Turning the Gaze on Modern Contraceptive Research: An Introduction 1

2 “Birth Control for a Nation”: The IUD as Technoscientific Biopower 33

3 From the “Masses” to the “Moms”: Governing Contraceptive Risks 73

4 “IUDs Are Not Abortifacients”: The Biopolitics of Contraceptive Mechanisms 105

5 “Keep Life Simple”: Body/Technology Relationships in Racialized Global Contexts 137

6 Diffracting the Technoscientific Body: A Conclusion 163

Notes 171

References 201

Index 221