Contents

List of illustrations ix
List of texts xiii
Preface xvii
Acknowledgments xxi

1 The origins of English (before 450) 1

Chapter overview 1
1.1 The origins of human language 1
1.2 Language change 5
1.3 Changes in Germanic before the invasions of Britain 8
1.4 The world of the Germanic peoples 11
1.5 The Germanic migrations 14
1.6 Summary 17
Study questions 18
Further reading 19

2 Old English: early Germanic Britain (450–700) 20

Chapter overview 20
2.1 The first peoples 21
2.2 The Germanic incursions 24
2.3 Introduction to Old English 28
2.4 The Christianization of England 33
2.5 Literature in the early Old English period 36
2.6 Summary 43
Study questions 43
Further reading 44

3 Old English: the Viking invasions and their consequences (700–1066/1100) 45

Chapter overview 45
3.1 The Viking invasions 46
3.2 Linguistic influence of Old Norse 51
3.3 Creolization 56

3.4 Alfred's reforms and the West Saxon standard 60
3.5 Monastic reform, linguistic developments, and literary genres 61
3.6 Summary 63
Study questions 64
Further reading 65

4 Middle English: the non-standard period (1066/1100–1350) 66

Chapter overview 66
4.1 Dynastic conflict and the Norman Conquest 67
4.2 Linguistic features of Middle English in the non-standard period 74
4.3 French influence on Middle English and the question of creolization 89
4.4 English literature 90
4.5 Dialectal diversity in early ME 91
4.6 Summary 93
Study questions 94
Further reading 94

5 Middle English: the emergence of Standard English (1350–1500) 95

Chapter overview 95
5.1 Political and social turmoil and demographic developments 96
5.2 The expansion of domains 99
5.3 Chancery English (Chancery Standard) 105
5.4 Literature 112
5.5 Variation 118
5.6 Summary 120
Study questions 121
Further reading 121

6 The Early Modern English period (1500–1700) 123

Chapter overview 123
6.1 The Early Modern English period 124
6.2 Early Modern English 128
6.3 Regulation and codification 132
6.4 Religious and scientific prose and belles lettres 142
6.5 Variation: South and North 151
6.6 Summary 153
Study questions 154
Further reading 154

7 The spread of English (since the late sixteenth century) 155

Chapter overview 155
7.1 Social-historical background 156
7.2 Language policy 160
7.3 The emergence of General English (GenE) 161

7.4 Transplantation 164
7.5 Linguistic correlates of European expansion 166
7.6 Summary 176
Study questions 177
Further reading 178

8 English in Great Britain and Ireland (since 1700) 179

Chapter overview 179
8.1 Social and historical developments in Britain and Ireland 179
8.2 England and Wales 182
8.3 Scotland 199
8.4 Ireland 202
8.5 Urban varieties 206
8.6 Summary 209
Study questions 209
Further reading 210

9 English pidgins, English creoles, and English (since the early seventeenth century) 211

Chapter overview 211
9.1 European expansion and the slave trade 212
9.2 Language contact 215
9.3 Pidgins 218
9.4 Creoles 224
9.5 Theories of origins 228
9.6 Summary 240
Study questions 241
Further reading 242

10 English in North America (since the early seventeenth century) 243

Chapter overview 243
10.1 The beginnings of English in North America 243
10.2 Colonial English 246
10.3 Development of North American English after American independence 251
10.4 Non-standard GenE 258
10.5 Ethnic variety within AmE 264
10.6 Summary 274
Study questions 274
Further reading 275

11 English in the ENL communities of the Southern Hemisphere (since 1788) 277

Chapter overview 277
11.1 Social-historical background 278
11.2 Southern Hemisphere English: grammar 284
11.3 Southern Hemisphere English: pronunciation 288

11.4 Southern Hemisphere English: vocabulary and pragmatics 292
11.5 Regional and ethnic variation 300
11.6 Summary 303
Study questions 303
Further reading 304

12 English in the ESL countries of Africa and Asia (since 1795) 305

Chapter overview 305
12.1 English as a Second Language 306
12.2 Language planning and policy 315
12.3 Linguistic features of ESL 317
12.4 Substrate influence 324
12.5 Identitarian function of language 332
12.6 Summary 334
Study questions 335
Further reading 335

13 Global English (since 1945) 337

Chapter overview 337
13.1 The beginnings of Global English 337
13.2 Media dominance 339
13.3 Features of medialized language 343
13.4 ENL, ESL, and ELF/EFL 351
13.5 The identitarian role of the multiplicity of Englishes 358
13.6 Summary 361
Study questions 361
Further reading 362

The International Phonetic Alphabet 363
Glossary 364
Bibliography 392
Index 405