

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Poetry Bound I
1 Dating orality, thinking balladry: of minstrels and milkmaids in 1771 16
Beattie's Minstrel : Representing the remediation of the oral 25
The mouth of a milkmaid: Citing and dating the oral 33
2 How to do things with ballads: Fieldwork and the archive in late-eighteenth-century Britain 44
From antiquarian correspondents to cited informants:
Balladeering circuitry and the rhetoric of annotation 50
Oral tradition and the individual talent: Mediums, messages, and the transformation of citation 54
Citation technology: Representing mediation in balladeering 64
Our informants, ourselves: Natives in the field of the human sciences 69
Balladeering, historicity, mediality: Feedback loops and Ossian redux 76
Appendix to Chapter 2: Queries circulated by the committee convened to "Inquire into the Nature and Authenticity of the Poems of Ossian," appointed by the Highland Society of Scotland 82
3 Tuning the multi-media nation: or, Minstrelsy of the Afro-Scottish border 84
Cultural comparison, technological constraint 90
From the Scottish border to the African interior: case studies 97
From antiquarian footnote to parlor song and poem: "The Cherokee Death Song" 104
Song mediations and methodological implications 112
4 How to do things with minstrels: Poetry and historicity 117
"Born in a rude age": History, tradition, and the minstrel talent 122
From "the historic muse" to the historical situation: "Their date was fled" 126

Taking the measure of minstrelsy: Historicizing mediums, messages, metrics	132
Minstrelsy interminable	135
5 Minstrelsy, or, Romantic poetry	140
Minstrel Agonistes: The antiquarian debate	146
Toward a minstrelsy complex: specifying the elements	151
How to revive a minstrel: Scott's minstrelsy and the case of poetry	153
How to kill a minstrel: Wordsworth's "Song, at the Feast of Brougham Castle" and "Hart-Leap Well"	160
Minstrelsy from below: John Clare and the critique of the progress of poetry	168
Minstrelsy as ongoing diagnosis: A modernist critique of the Romantic in Wallace Stevens	175
6 Seven types of poetic authority circa 1800: Romantic poiesis reconsidered	181
I The authority of inspiration	184
II The authority of anonymity	185
III The authority of imitative authorship	186
IV Authoritative translation	188
V Editorial authority	189
VI Ethnographic authority	191
VII Experiential authority	194
7 British Romantic mediality and beyond: Reflections on the fate of "orality"	212
From piping to print: Blake's allegory of poetic mediation	215
The ethnographic romance: The Albanian War-Song in Childe Harold	220
Wordsworthian transmissions: "Simon Lee"	225
Lyrical Ballads and media circuitry	228
Representing orality and impasse in "The Solitary Reaper"	231
Binding mediations: Wordsworth's Ossian unbound	234
Romantic mediality: Wordsworth vs. Scott	240
Orality interminable: Oral turns in late-twentieth-century poetry	243
Conclusion: Thirteen (or more) ways of looking at a black bird: or, Poiesis unbound	253
Toward Child No. 26: Classifying, nationalizing, localizing ballads' black birds	258
Thirteen (or more) ways of looking at a blackbird: A recapitulation	261
Remaking and unmaking poiesis : Between medial indifference and meaningful messages	265
Bibliography	271
Index	287