

Contents

Preface

Introduction: Character, Progression, and the Rhetorical Interpretation of Narrative

Part I The Mimetic-Thematic Relationship and the Thematizing of Narrative

1 Character, Progression, and Thematism:
The Cases of 1984 and Pride and Prejudice

2 The Thematic Function and Interpreting by Cultural Codes: The Case of
"The Beast in the Jungle"

Part II Incorporating the Synthetic Function: Reexamining Audiences and Progression

3 The Functions of Character and the Relations of Audiences in The French Lieutenant's Woman

4 Progression and the Synthetic Secondary
Character: The Case of John Wemmick

5 Foregrounding the Synthetic: Calvino's
"Reader" and the Audiences of Narrative

Part III Evaluating—and Resisting—Character and Progression

6 Evaluation and Resistance:
The Case of Catherine Barkley

Conclusion: Extensions and Reconsiderations

Notes

Index