

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Prologue	1
Introduction: Becoming Noncitizens	17
1. Ethno-patriarchal Returns: The Fall of the Wall, Closed Factories, and Leftover Bodies	29
2. Travel as an Analytic of Exclusion: The Politics of Mobility after the Wall	50
3. We Were Dancing in the Club, Not on the Berlin Wall: Black Bodies, Street Bureaucrats, and Hypersexual Returns	72
4. The Progeny of Guest Workers as Leftover Bodies: Post-Wall West German Schools and the Administration of Failure	95
5. Why Can't You Just Remove Your Headscarf So We Can See You? Reappropriating "Foreign" Bodies in the New Germany	108
Conclusion: Intervening at the Sites of Exclusionary Production	133
Epilogue: Triangulated (Non)Citizenship: Memories and Futures of Racialized Production	142
Notes	155
References	167
Index	181