

Contents

Introduction	9
1: London and the Visionary Tradition	31
Daniel Defoe and the Re-Imagining of London; William Blake and the Visionary Tradition; Thomas de Quincey and the Origins of the Urban Wanderer; Robert Louis Stevenson and the Urban Gothic; Arthur Machen and the Art of Wandering; Alfred Watkins and the Theory of Ley Lines
2: Paris and the Rise of the Flâneur	57
Poe, Baudelaire and the Man of the Crowd; Walter Benjamin and the Arcades Project; Robinson and the Mental Traveller; Psycho-geography & Surrealism
3: Guy Debord and the Situationist International	81
The Pre-Situationist Movements; The Situationist International (1957–1972); Walking the City with Michel de Certeau

4: Psychogeography Today 111

JG Ballard and the Death of Affect; Iain Sinclair and the Rebranding of Psychogeography; Peter Ackroyd and the New Anti-quarianism; Stewart Home and the London Psychogeographical Association; Patrick Keiller and the Return of Robinson

Psychogeographical Groups,
Organisations and Websites 141Bibliography & Further Reading 147Index 153