

Table of Contents

Table of Contents	vii
Preface	ix
Introduction	xi
The Status of Dutch Literature in the 16th and 17th Centuries: Other Evidence	1
Paul Sellin, University of California, Los Angeles
Europe in the Eighteenth Century: Examples of International Literary Connections	25
Margriet Lacy, Butler University
Possibilities and Dangers of Aestheticism in Two Novels of Louis Couperus	33
Manfred Wolf, San Francisco State University
Foreign Models for the Postwar Poetic Development in the Low Countries	45
Hugo Brems, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven
The Bind of Double Metonymy	57
André Lefèvere, University of Texas, Austin
A Mirror for Translators	71
Leonard Nathan, University of California, Berkeley

The Indonesian Connection: Dutch Literature of the East Indies in Comparative Perspective	83
Reinier Salverda, University College London
Expressionism and New Objectivity: German Trends in Dutch Literature	109
Jaap Goedegebuure, Katholieke Universiteit Brabant
The Second World War in Dutch and German Literature	123
Bernd Müller, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam
Lucebert versus Breytenbach	133
Jacques van der Elst, Potchefstroomse Universiteit
Leon de Winter and Peter Handke: Varieties of Postmodernism	157
Anne Marie Musschoot, Rijksuniversiteit Gent
A Mad Hatter's Tupperware Party: Postmodern Tendencies in American and Dutch Poetry	171
Wiljan van den Akker, Rijksuniversiteit Utrecht
Dutch Literature in the World: Diagnosis and Prognosis	197
Johan P. Snapper, University of California, Berkeley	