

Table of contents

Introduction	1
Matteo Stocchetti and Karin Kukkonen
Part I. Approaches to visual communication and the question of power
1. Images: Who gets what, when and how?	11
Matteo Stocchetti
2. The critical tradition in visual studies: An introduction	39
Juha Herkman
3. The map, the mirror and the simulacrum: Visual communication and the question of power	55
Karin Kukkonen
4. Disenchantment with politics and the salience of images	69
Ruth Wodak
Part II. Case studies: Visual communication in late modern society
5. Organising political consensus: The visual management of diplomatic negotiations and community relations in the Finnish accession to the EU	91
Anne Koski
6. Walls, doors and exciting encounters: Balkanism and its edges in Bulgarian political cartoons on European integration	113
Alina Curticapean
7. The politics of visual representation: Security, the US and the 'war on terrorism'	151
Helle Palu

8. The politics of identity and visibility: The case of Finnish war children Anna-Kaisa Kuusisto-Arponen	181
9. Visual politics and celebrity humanitarianism: How colonial culture is revitalised in the West Riina Yrjölä	199
10. The economics of gay reality television: The visualisation of sexual difference in contemporary consumer culture Marjo Kolehmainen and Katariina Mäkinen	225
11. Mending endings: Power and closure in film plots Gerda Dullaart	245
12. Representing the state of exception: Power, utopia, visibility and narrative in superhero comics Mervi Miettinen	269
Index	291