

Contents

In Place of an Introduction: On Gender Issues and Their Possible Significance for Understanding the Spiritual World of the Rabbis	1
“Masculinity” and “Femininity” in the Psychosexual Theory of Freud and Nancy Chodorow	1
Lacan’s Interpretation of the Freudian Theory	5
The Drawbacks of the Freudian Approach	7
Sara Ruddick and the Care Experience	10
Between Freud and Buber: Between Psychoanalysis and Dialogue	11
A Note on the Relationship between “I-Thou” and Halakhah and “Law”	18
Phallicism, Humility, and the Tension between “Masculinity” and “Femininity” in the Aggadic Narratives	20
The Chapters of the Book	25

Chapter One

The Woman’s Spiritual Place in the Talmudic Story:
A Reading of the Narrative of Mar Ukba and His Wife	29
An Introduction to the Discussion of the Narrative	29
The Text of the Narrative	31
The Reading of the Narrative	34
Why Was Mar Ukba Insulted?	39
The Leitmotiv of the Heel	45
On the Feminine and Masculine Associations in the Narrative	47

Chapter Two

Rabbi Akiva and the Daughter of Ben Kalba Savua:
On the Conception of Love in the Spiritual World of the Talmudic Story	56
The Narrative of Akiva and His Mate, according to the Version of Ketubot 62b–63a	56
The Versions of the Narrative	58

The Love of Akiva and His Mate	63
Structure of the Narrative	68
The Waves of Opposition and Their Significance	69
Inner and Outer	77
Stability and Mobility	81
Is This a Romantic Love Story?	83
Against Boyarin's Political Reading	89
Appendix A: On the Nature of Relationship between Akiva and His Mate in the Later Versions	94
Appendix B: On the Character of Ben Kalba Savua in the Later Versions	102
Appendix C: On the Character of "That Old Man" in the Later Versions	106
Appendix D: On the Conversation with the Women Neighbors in the Later Versions	107

Chapter 3

"Internal Homeland" and "External Homeland": A Literary and Psychoanalytical Study of the Narrative of R. Assi and His Aged Mother	109
The Complex Relationship between Halakhah and Aggadah, as Background to a Reading of the Narrative	109
The Text of the Narrative	111
A Proposed Psychoanalytical Reading	122
On the Transformation of the Text from the Land of Israel to Babylonia	126

Chapter 4

The Female Breast and the Mouth Opened in Prayer	133
The Narrative of the Intervention by the Mother of R. Ahadboi in the Study Hall Quarrel	133
A Discussion of the Elements of the Narrative	139
Baring One's Breasts as an Act of Protest	143
Baring One's Breast as a Spiritual Expression	146
Baring One's Breasts as an Act of Entreaty	149
Exposing One's Breasts in the Midrashic Picture: A Gesture of Love and Giving	150

Chapter Five

A Reading of the Creation Narrative: Femininity and Masculinity in the Prism of the Bible and the Midrash	154
The Mythological Background and Gender Aspects	155
In the Beginning God Created	165
Creation Ex Nihilo or Ex Materia?	171
The Midrashic Sources, and Their Relation to the Proposed Dialogic Reading	177
On Building God's Palace in the Garbage in Gen. Rabbah .	179
On the End of the Creation Passage: The Elements of the Sabbath and Sanctity	185
Buber's Comments on the Creation Passage	192
The Gender Significance of the Moderation in the Biblical Portrayal	194
The Dialogic Significance of the Creation Episode: Love as a Procreative and Creative Force	205
Afterword	214
Bibliography	215