

Contents

Preface	ix
Abbreviations	xi
Chapter One: The Context of the Discussion	1
Galatian Debates	1
A Survey of Views on the Paraenetic Material in 5.13-6.10	9
1. Galatians 5.13-6.10 as a wholly or largely unrelated section	9
2. Galatians 5.13-6.10 integrated within the whole letter	16
3. The literary structure of Galatians	23
Galatians and Pauline Ethics	26
Chapter Two: The Galatians and the Demands of 'the Agitators'	36
The Nature of our Evidence	36
The Demand for Circumcision	45
Observance of the Law	60
Conclusion	73
Chapter Three: Paul's Response in the Main Body of the Letter	75
The Antioch Episode and Justification by Faith	76
The Spirit in the Galatian Churches	83
The Abrahamaic Family Redefined	86
Continuity and Discontinuity	96
Chapter Four: The Sufficiency of the Spirit	106
Freedom in the Slavery of Love: 5.13	108
Dealing with the Flesh: 5.16-18, 24-25	110
The Fruit against which there is no law: 5.22-23	119

Fulfilling the Law (of Christ): 5.14 and 6.2	125
1. The Law of Christ	126
2. Fulfilling the Law	135
Conclusion	142
Chapter Five: The Practical Value of the Spirit	146
The Problems of Paul's Collection of Maxims	146
The Maxims in 5.25-6.10	155
The Purpose of these Maxims	167
The Significance of 'Parallels'	170
Chapter Six: Flesh and Spirit	178
Comparative Study	182
Theological Analysis	191
Flesh and Spirit in Galatians	202
1. The Flesh	203
2. The Irony of the Spirit-flesh Dualism	209
3. Flesh and Spirit in Indicative and Imperative	212
Chapter Seven: Conclusions	210
The Function of the Paraenetic Material	216
Observations on Pauline Ethics	220
Observations on Pauline Theology	235
1. Faith and Law in Galatians	235
2. Galatians and Other Pauline Letters	242
Bibliography	252
Indexes	278