
CONTENTS

List of figures vii
List of tables ix
Preface xi
Acknowledgements xiii

1 INTRODUCTION: INSTITUTIONAL
PUBLIC CHOICE THEORY AND POLITICAL ANALYSIS 1

PART I DEMOCRACY

2 INTEREST GROUPS AND
COLLECTIVE ACTION 13
The pluralist approach 14
The corporatist approach 27
The logic of collective action model 30
The new right model 36

3 RECONSTRUCTING THE THEORY
OF GROUPS 45
Why people join groups 45
Explaining variations in group effectiveness 62
Explaining interest group democracy 71

Contents

- 4 ECONOMIC EXPLANATIONS OF VOTING BEHAVIOUR 79
with Hugh Ward
The decision to vote 80
Exogenous voter preferences 90
- 5 PARTY COMPETITION – THE PREFERENCE-SHAPING MODEL 112
with Hugh Ward
Accommodating voters' preferences 112
Parties with state power 117
Preference-shaping versus preference-accommodating strategies 128

PART II BUREAUCRACY

- 6 EXISTING PUBLIC CHOICE MODELS OF BUREAUCRACY 147
The pluralist model 148
The new right model 154
Problems in analyzing bureaucracies 162
- 7 THE BUREAU-SHAPING MODEL 174
Collective action problems inside bureaucracies 174
Key concepts for analyzing budgets and agencies 181
The conditions for budget-maximizing 191
Bureaucrats' motivations and bureau-shaping strategies 200
- 8 COMPARING BUDGET-MAXIMIZING AND BUREAU-SHAPING MODELS 210
State growth and organization 210
Explaining privatization and deinstitutionalization 227
- 9 CONCLUSION – ECONOMIC EXPLANATIONS IN POLITICAL SCIENCE 249
Supply-side implications 255
Bibliography 260
Authors index 278
Subjects index 281