

Contents

About the authors	page vii
Preface	xi
1 Overview David Colander	1
I The Post Walrasian macroeconomic vision
2 Taking markets seriously: groundwork for a Post Walrasian macroeconomics Robert Clower and Peter Howitt	21
3 Towards a not-too-rational macroeconomics Axel Leijonhufvud	39
4 The macrofoundations of micro David Colander	57
II The underpinnings of Post Walrasian macroeconomics
5 The evolution of macroeconomics: the origins of Post Walrasian macroeconomics Perry Mehrling	71
6 Chaos theory and Post Walrasian macroeconomics J. Barkley Rosser, Jr.	87
7 Marshallian general equilibrium analysis David Colander	109

III Modeling a Post Walrasian economy
8 Heterogeneity, aggregation, and a meaningful macroeconomics	127
Robert J. Martel
9 Walras, complexity, and Post Walrasian macroeconomics	145
David M. Reaume
10 Team coordination problems and macroeconomic models	157
John Bryant
11 “Competitive” market disequilibrium: a Post Walrasian analysis of investment	173
John Bryant
IV New structuralist macroeconomics vs. Post Walrasian macroeconomics
12 Endogenizing the natural rate of unemployment: Phelps’s structural slumps and the Post Walrasian framework	189
Hans van Ees and Harry Garretsen
13 Post Walrasian macroeconomic policy	207
David Colander and Hans van Ees
IV Appendix: Literature Survey
An annotated bibliography on the (macro)foundation of Post Walrasian economics	223
Hans van Ees and Harry Garretsen
Name Index	253
Subject Index	261