

Contents

Preface	v
Introduction	3

Part I

Consciousness in Third-Person Context

1 Psycho-Narration	21
Early Avoidance	21
Dissonance and Consonance	26
Summary and Expansion	33
Narration of Sub-Verbal States	46
2 Quoted Monologue	58
Modes of Quotation	58
Narrative Context	66
Psychological Implications	76
Stylistic Tendencies	88
3 Narrated Monologue	99
Initial Description	99
Theoretical and Historical Perspective	107
Irony and Sympathy	116
Dimensions and Conjunctions	126

Part II

Consciousness in First-Person Texts

4 Retrospective Techniques	143
Dissonant Self-Narration	145
Consonant Self-Narration	153
Self-Quoted Monologue	161
Self-Narrated Monologue	166
5 From Narration to Monologue	173
Problematic Presentation	175
Chronology and Memory	181
Discourse and Monologue	186
Evocation and Synchronization	198
Diary and Continuity	208
6 Autonomous Monologue	217
"Penelope" as Paradigm	217
Variations of the Form	232
Memory Monologue	247
Epilogue: The Relation to Drama and Lyric	255

Notes	269
Editions Cited	321
Index	327