

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Introduction	11
PART I. WHAT IS A HOUSE?
1. The House as Archetype and Archetope of Human Culture. Its Origins and Universal Features in Relation to the Indo-European Tradition	19
2. The House Myth and the House as a Model of the World. Some Observations about the Russian Cultural Tradition	45
3. The Psycho poetics of the House and Archaic Thinking	53
4. The House and its Functions in Structuring Narrative and Poetic Worlds: the House as Myth	65
PART II. THE HOUSE MYTH IN 19 TH AND 20 TH CENTURY RUSSIAN LITERATURE AND CULTURE
1. Two Strong Images	77
2. The Domostroi and Some Other Old Russian Reflexes: Ostrovskii, Dostoevskii, Leskov, Zamiatin	79
3. Peter the Great's Window on Europe	83
4. Chaadaev's Homelessness. The Beginning of a Long Tradition	89
5. Some Diachronic Considerations. The Beginning of the Nineteenth Century. The Natural School	95
6. The Slavophile Domus	99
7. Pushkin's Houses. The Craving for Homeliness	101
8. Lermontov's Cosmic Homelessness	139
9. Gogol'. The Bachelor, and the House as a Box	147

10. The House Myth Between the Natural School and Realism. From the City to the Countryside	159
11. The Russian Estate. The Domus Myth and the 'Nests of the Gentry'	163
12. Turgenev and the Domus	171
13. Goncharov. Homelessness Between Arcadian Dreams and Precipices	199
14. Saltykov-Shchedrin. Houses of Death	217
15. Tolstoi and Family Life	231
16. Bunin. Remembering the House. The Body in the World	235
17. Dostoevskii. The Underground Man and the Accidental Family	247
18. The End of Realism. The Onset of Modernism. New Anxieties	257
19. Garshin's World as Prison	259
20. Chekhov. Ambiguous Dachas and Mansions	261
21. Symbolism. Demonic Urbanism and Catastrophic Expectations	281
22. Briusov and Blok	283
23. Belyi's Cosmic House. The Big Bang and the Temple of the Body	297
24. From Symbolism to Futurism	309
25. Guro. A New House and a New Life. The Magic of a Child's Vision	311
26. Khlebnikov. The House of Language. A Body to Live in	315
27. Maiakovskii. Realising the Metaphor. The Self as a House	323
28. Zabolotskii. Modernist. Archaist	329
29. The Catastrophe. The Loss of the Centre	337
30. Pil'niak. Life and Death of the House	341
31. Zamiatin. The Cave Myth Revisited	357
32. Platonov's Paradoxes and Pseudologics. Negative Spaces and Houses on the Move	363
33. The House and Socialism. Trifonov, Chukovskaia and Akhmatova	377
34. Anti-Houses. Under the Doom of the Kommunalka . Deformations of the Utopian House	419
35. Bulgakov. The House as a Metaphysical Home	427
36. Solzhenitsyn. The Gulag World. 'Matriona's House'	437

37. Erofeev. Venichka's Homelessness in the Soviet Universe	445
38. Sorokin's Roman . A Postmodernist Attempts the Destruction of the Domus	459
39. Makanin's Underground . Homeless Under a Roof	471
Conclusions	491
Bibliography	495
Index	511