

Contents

List of Figures and Table	vii
List of Maps	viii
Preface	ix
1 Introduction	1
The state and power among the peasants	1
Witchcraft, witch trials and authority	7
Women in and under authority	10
Court records as text	13
2 The Widow Farmer Witch: Agata Pekantytär 1670–1700	21
Agata Pekantytär, the mother	21
The widow cotter	22
Inheritances 1671–1674	27
The plight of the heiress	32
Magic trials	36
The mother	45
Agata Pekantytär, mistress of the farm	49
Farmhold responsibilities	49
Family haven?	52
Shared representation	56
Envious neighbours: witches to trial	60
The village	65
Agata Pekantytär as the reputed witch	70
Gossip	70
Old age	72
The story of a powerful woman?	74
3 Witches and Power	77
Poor or powerful people?	78
Women between kin and state	81
Power in court	90
Reading the court records	94
Witchcraft representing power	101
Conclusions	110
4 Work, Status and Power	113
Work as obedience	114
Work as personal worth	116
Witchcraft and skilled work	120
Work and community	123
Gendering work and witchcraft	128

Ownership and control	137
Partnership for power	139
Gendering work and power	145
Conclusions	147
5 Family, Women's Status and Power	151
A woman's place	152
Spouses and protection	161
Exclusion from the family	168
Feminisms, witches and patriarchy	171
Regaining the body	174
Idealised mother and maternal power	182
Mothers and grandmothers	188
Conclusions	192
6 Conclusions: Mother, Wife and Witch	197
Women in court	197
Mothers, housewives	199
Witches	203
Appendix	205
Bibliography	207
Index	227