

CONTENTS

---

Acknowledgments vii

ONE

---

The Portraitive Mode

I

Wordsworth's Self-Portrait 2

Taste, Fashionable Consumption, and Congruence 14

Heightened Impressions: Imagination, Desire, and Identity 25

TWO

---

Making Faces

33

Legible Bodies 35

Seeing, Consumption, and Strategies of Space 46

Painted Figures and Plutarch's Heirs 61

Reading Reproduction 69

Bodies in Time 83

THREE

---

Consuming Portraits

87

A New Socius: Josiah Wedgwood and Rudolph Ackermann 100

Miniatures: Richard Cosway and John Boydell 118

Facing History 136

FOUR

---

Practicing Aesthetics

143

Aesthetics, Taste, and the Collection 146

Collecting Fetishes 167

House Museums 177

Instituting the Portrait 189

FIVE

---

Living Portraits

191

Reflexive Staging, Fashionability, and Travel Practice 195

Mary Robinson, Acting the Self 204

Byronic Travel and the Theater of the Self 222

Consumable Subjects: Manfred, Sappho, and Fame 232

Notes 243

Bibliography 293

Index 313