

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Foreword: The Critic as Investigator	ix
List of Previously Published Essays	xiii
Introduction	1
Part 1 Women and Men
1 “If I Can Make It There”: Oz’s Emerald City and the New Woman	5
2 Christabel’s “Wandering Mother” and the Discourse of the Self: A Lacanian Reading of Repressed Narration	15
3 The Ape and the Aristocrat	37
4 Elizabeth Bishop and the Wordsworth of Lyrical Ballads : Sentimentalism, Straw Men, and Misprision	51
Part 2 Thomas De Quincey’s Violent Stages
5 Bang-Up! Theatricality and the “Diphrelatic Art” in De Quincey’s English Mail-Coach	61
6 Thomas De Quincey’s “Three-Fingered Jack”: The West Indian Origins of the “Dark Interpreter”	81
7 The “Dark Problem” of Greek Tragedy: Sublimated Violence in De Quincey	95
Part 3 Gifts and Powers
8 A Gift that Complicates Employ: Poetry and Poverty in “Resolution and Independence”	109
9 The Literature of Power and the Imperial Will: De Quincey’s Opium-War Essays	129
10 Wordsworth between God and Mammon: The Early “Spots of Time,” and the Sublime as Sacramental Commodity	137
Part 4 Sites and Regions
11 Detection as Method: Reconstructing the Past in Godwin and Freud	151

- 12 Sacrificial Sites, Place-Keeping, and “Pre-History” in Wordsworth’s
“Michael” 161
- 13 Race, Region, Rule: Genre and the Case of Charlie Chan 171

Part 5 All in Your Head

- 14 Pictures of the Mind: Iron and Charcoal, “Ouzy” Tides and “Vagrant
Dwellers” at Tintern, 1798 193
- 15 “Cortez—or Balboa, or Somebody Like That”: Form, Fact, and Forgetting in Keats’s “Chapman’s Homer” Sonnet 223

Bibliography 251

Index 279