

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments	vii
1: The Middle Ages until circa 1400 Frits van Oostrom	1
2: The Late Middle Ages and the Age of the Rhetoricians, 1400–1560 Herman Pleij	63
I. Literary Life in the City	63
II. The Chambers of Rhetoric	96
III. Literature and the Printing Press	129
IV. Farewell to the Middle Ages	147
3: The Dutch Revolt and the Golden Age, 1560–1700 E. K. Grootes and M. A. Schenkeveld-Van der Dussen	153
I. Literature and the Dutch Revolt	154
II. Renaissance and Renewal	174
III. Literature as a Medium of Instruction: Drama	191
IV. Literature as a Medium of Instruction: Prose and Poetry	226
V. Literature as an Elite Phenomenon	259
4: Literature of the Enlightenment, 1700–1800 Marleen de Vries	293
I. Introduction	293
II. Early Enlightenment Literature, 1680–1725	301
III. Classical Poetry and Modern Prose, 1725–1760	323
IV. The Shaping of a National Literature 1760–1800	338
5: The Nineteenth Century, 1800–1880 Willem van den Berg	369
I. Introduction	369
II. The Early Decades	383
III. The Historical Novel	400
IV. From Byronic Poetry to Realist Prose	414
V. Literary Critics	420
VI. Multatuli	429
VII. Poetry Around and After the Mid-Century	439

6:	Renewal and Reaction, 1880–1940	463
I.	Literary Renewal, 1880–1893	463
	Ton Anbeek
II.	A New “Spiritual” Art, 1893–1916	493
	Anne Marie Musschoot
III.	Between Two World Wars, 1916–1940	532
	Jaap Goedegebuure
7:	The Postwar Period, 1940–	573
I.	From the Hunger Winter to the First Morning, 1940–1960	573
	Ton Anbeek
II.	The Revolution of the Sixties, 1960–1970	603
	Anne Marie Musschoot
III.	The Imagination Seizes Power, 1970–1980	623
	Anne Marie Musschoot
IV.	The Ego Looks Back, 1980–	645
	Anne Marie Musschoot
	Bibliography	657
	List of English Translations of Literary Works	667
	Index	707