

Contents

Acknowledgments 9

Introduction: Women Writing Spain?:
The Politics of Historical, Cultural, and National Identities 13

Part 1. Representing the Nation in Nineteenth-Century Spain:
Rosario de Acuña and the Liberal Debate 29

Part 2. The Spanish Civil War and Franco Dictatorship:
History as Trauma and Wound in
Ángela Figuera's Poetic Work 85

Part 3. Recovering Cultural History in Post-Franco Spain:
Rosa Chacel's Novels of Memory 140

Conclusion: Materializing Liberal Histories:
Spain as Democracy, "Federation," and European Nation 189

Notes 201

Works Cited 227

Index 245