

Contents

Preface	9
Chapter 1
Aesthetic Anxiety and the Uncanny	21
Freud on the Acropolis
The Uncanny Beyond Repetition and the Return of the Repressed
Chapter 2
The Uncanny Before Freud: Psychological and Philosophical Aspects	47
Uncanny Anxiety and Sublime Awe
Philosophical Psychology, Mental Physicalism, and the Pre-Freudian Unconscious
Estranged Knowledge: "Anxious" Texts by Kant and Schelling
Chapter 3
Beautiful Breakdowns: Uncanny Symptoms and the Aestheticization of Illness	95
Magnetism as an Aesthetic and Scientific Practice in the Early Nineteenth Century
The Case Studies of Moritz and Schlegel
Chapter 4
Conspiracy Theories: The Melancholy and Manipulated Male Subject	143
The Curse of Enthusiasm
Male Hysteria and the Uncanny in Tieck and Schiller
Chapter 5
Too Much Memory: Uncanny Love	185
The Anxious Revolution Continues
Disturbers of Love: Uncanny Displacement in Kleist and Hoffmann
Uncanny Love and the Aesthetics of Healing in Lang and Schnitzler
Chapter 6
Conclusion: Childish Anxiety, Wish, Belief	235
Bibliography	243