

Contents

Contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xii
1 “Jewish blood”: an introduction	1
MITCHELL B. HART
2 Blood and belief: an introduction to a Jewish symbol	14
DAVID BIALE
3 We have never been Jewish: an essay in asymmetric hematology	31
GIL ANIDJAR
4 “By the blood that you shed you are guilty”: perspectives on female blood in Leviticus and Ezekiel	57
ELIZABETH W. GOLDSTEIN
5 The topography of blood in Mishnah Yoma	70
MICHAEL D. SWARTZ
6 God will see the blood: sin, punishment, and atonement in the Jewish–Christian discourse	83
ISRAEL J. YUVAL
7 Pharaoh’s bloodbath: medieval European Jewish thoughts about leprosy, disease, and blood therapy	99
EPHRAIM SHOHAM-STEINER
8 The blood libel in Solomon ibn Verga’s Shevet Yehudah	116
JEREMY COHEN

9	The symbolic power of blood-letting: Bernard Picart's La circoncision des juifs portugais	136
	HILIT SUROWITZ
10	Blood and myth in the thought of Franz Rosenzweig	152
	HAGAI DAGAN
11	“Man’s red soup”: blood and the art of Esau in the poetry of Uri Zvi Greenberg	160
	NETA STAHL
12	The “blood motif” in the struggle for political recognition: Zionist “dissidents” contest exclusion	172
	UDI LEBEL
13	Mezizah: the controversy over the manner of dealing with circumcision blood among contemporary Orthodox Jews	194
	IRA ROBINSON
	Index	210