

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xii
ABBREVIATIONS	xiv
INTRODUCTION: From Abstract Theory to Life-Related Hermeneutics	xvi

Part I: Reasons to Explore the Hermeneutics of Doctrine

1. From Free-Floating “Problems” to Hermeneutical Questions from Life	3
1.1. Gadamer’s Contrast between “Problems” and “Questions That Arise”	3
1.2. Christian Confessions and Their Life-Contexts: From the New Testament to the End of the Second Century	8
2. Dispositional Accounts of Belief	19
2.1. Mental States and Dispositional Belief in Wittgenstein, and Belief in First John	19
2.2. Dispositional Accounts of Belief in H. H. Price, and “Half-belief” in Jonah	27
2.3. From the New Testament to Patristic Doctrine: Continuities of Dispositional Responses	34

CONTENTS

3. Forms of Life, Embodiment, and Place	43
3.1. Communal Confessions in Israel's Life and Embodiment in the Biblical Writings	43
3.2. Embodiment in Christian Traditions, Disembodiment, and Place	50
3.3. "Life" and "Forms of Life" in Hermeneutics: Dilthey, Apel, and Wittgenstein	55
4. The Hermeneutics of Doctrine as a Hermeneutic of Temporal and Communal Narrative	62
4.1. Time, Temporality, and Narrative: The Living God	62
4.2. Christian Doctrine as Dramatic Narrative: Hans Urs von Balthasar	68
4.3. Doctrine as Drama in Kevin Vanhoozer's Canonical-Linguistic Approach	73
5. Formation, Education, and Training in Hermeneutics and in Doctrine	81
5.1. Formation, Education, and Training in Gadamer, Ricoeur, and Betti	81
5.2. Training and Application in Wittgenstein; Training and Performance in Wells	88
5.3. More on Education in Wittgenstein and Gadamer and Its Relevance to Doctrine	91
6. Formation through a Hermeneutic of Alterity and Provocation	98
6.1. Formation through Encounter with the Other: Jauss on Reception and Provocation	98
6.2. Formation, Hermeneutics, and Public Discourse in Doctrine: Tracy and the Classic	104
6.3. More Explicit Language on Doctrine as Formative: Evaluation and Critique	109

Part II: Replies to Possible Objections

7. Dialectic in Hermeneutics and Doctrine: Coherence and Polyphony	119
7.1. Coherence and Contingency: A Possible Source of Tension?	119
7.2. Does a Communal, Contingent, Hermeneutical Approach Exclude Epistemology?	126

Contents

7.3. Different Understandings of Dialectic, Systems, Polyphony, and Canon: Bakhtin	134
8. Can Doctrine as “Science” Remain Hermeneutical and Promote Formation?	145
8.1. Science, Theological Science, and Hermeneutical Formation in T. F. Torrance	145
8.2. Coherence, Cognition, Formation, and Hermeneutics in Bernard Lonergan	150
8.3. Coherence, System, and Scientific Criteria of Truth: Pannenberg	156
8.4. Proposals regarding Research Programs in the Sciences: Lakatos and Murphy	162
 Part III: Major Themes in Christian Doctrine
9. Varied Horizons of Understanding for the Hermeneutics of Being Human	177
9.1. Horizons of Understanding: First Example, the Hermeneutics of Relationality	177
9.2. Horizons of Understanding: Second Example, a Hermeneutic of Communal Framework	185
9.3. Horizons of Understanding: Third Example, a Hermeneutic of the Human Condition	192
10. Creation as a Horizon of Understanding for Interpreting the Human Condition	198
10.1. Creation as a Horizon of Understanding in the Biblical Traditions	198
10.2. Creation as a Horizon for Understanding the Human Condition from Irenaeus to Barth	207
10.3. Creation in Recent “Hermeneutical” Theologies: Moltmann and Pannenberg	214
11. Being Human: Image of God, Relationality with Others, and Bodily and Temporal Life	223
11.1. Image of God as a Horizon of Understanding for Interpreting the Human Condition: Wisdom and Responsibility for the World	223

CONTENTS

11.2.	Image of God: The Capacity for Relationship with God and with Fellow Humans as “Other”	231
11.3.	Christ as the Image of God and the Gift of Embodied Human Life	240
11.4.	Emotion, Sexuality, and Other Gifts That Raise the Stakes for Living	247
12.	The Hermeneutics of Misdirected Desire: The Nature of Human Sin	257
12.1.	Horizons That Generate a Preunderstanding of the Multiform Nature of Sin	257
12.2.	Multiform Understandings of Sin in the Old and New Testaments	265
12.3.	Varying Horizons for Understandings of Human Sin from Irenaeus to Calvin	273
13.	Toward a Hermeneutic of the Fall and Collective Sin	283
13.1.	A Hermeneutic of Biblical Texts Traditionally Interpreted as Theologies of the Fall	283
13.2.	The Fall and an Original State? Patristic Thought and Reformation Theology	288
13.3.	The Hermeneutics of Sin in Modern Thought from Schleiermacher to Niebuhr	293
13.4.	The Hermeneutics of Sin in Modern Thought from Feminist Writers to Pannenberg	303
14.	Hermeneutics and Linguistic Currencies of Theologies of the Cross	309
14.1.	Starting Points for Hermeneutics: Two Kinds of Horizons of Understanding	309
14.2.	Hard Currencies of Biblical Language: Redemption and Salvation	320
14.3.	Other Effective Hard Currencies: Reconciliation, Mediation, and Approach	325
14.4.	Multiple Concepts and Images in the New Testament as Models and Qualifiers	331
15.	The Hermeneutics of the Work of Christ: Interpreting Biblical Material	337
15.1.	Horizons of Understanding and Logical Grammar: Representation, Participation, Identification, and Substitution	337

Contents

15.2.	Horizons of Understanding and Logical Grammar: Expiation and Propitiation	341
15.3.	Being “in Christ”: The Hermeneutics of Justification by Grace through Faith	347
16.	Hermeneutical Factors in the History of the Doctrine of the Atonement	355
16.1.	The Special Significance of the Apostolic Fathers and Early Christian Apologists	355
16.2.	The Hermeneutical Issues Raised by Anselm’s Approach	360
16.3.	From Abelard to the Reformers and Aulén: Further Issues and Horizons	366
17.	Hermeneutical Approaches to Christology	376
17.1.	“Jesus is Lord”: Existential Hermeneutic and/or Ontological Truth-Claims?	376
17.2.	Jesus, God and Man: Modern Debates, and a Dual Background in the Old Testament and Judaism	383
17.3.	Jesus, God and Man: The Distinctive Contribution of the Epistle to the Hebrews	391
17.4.	The Jesus of History and the Christ of Faith: A Failed Debate within Reductionist Horizons	395
17.5.	Broader Hermeneutical Horizons: The Third Quest and Wolfhart Pannenberg	407
18.	The Holy Spirit: Scripture, History, Experience, and Hermeneutics	414
18.1.	Horizons Shaped by the Beyond Within, Extended by Christology and Eschatology	414
18.2.	The Spirit’s Formation of Christ: Personhood, Community, Gifts, Holiness	422
18.3.	The Deity of the Holy Spirit: The Church Fathers and a Trinitarian Horizon	429
18.4.	Pentecostal Gifts Then and Now: Issues of History and Hermeneutics	436
18.5.	The Exegesis and Hermeneutics of Speaking in Tongues and Prophetic Speech	444
19.	The Hermeneutics of the Doctrine of God as Trinity	451
19.1.	Hermeneutical Starting Points: The Relevance and Ambiguity of Experience	451

CONTENTS

19.2. Hermeneutical Starting Points: The New Testament Narrative of Trinitarian Co-Agency	456
19.3. Hermeneutical Supplements and Byways: God Who Is One Revealed in Action	460
19.4. The Hermeneutics of Divine Transcendence: Grace and Holy Love	469
20. The Church and Ministry in Hermeneutical Perspective	479
20.1. Hermeneutical Horizons: Corporate, Communal, Theological-and-Institutional, Doxological	479
20.2. Contributions of “Models” of the Church: More on the Theological and Institutional	488
20.3. The Marks of the Church and the Ministry of the Church: Apostleship	499
21. The Hermeneutics of Word and Sacraments:
Baptism and the Lord’s Supper or the Eucharist	509
21.1. Five Questions for Hermeneutics about Understanding the Sacraments	509
21.2. Hermeneutics and the Word of God, and Issues about Word and Sacrament	515
21.3. Hermeneutical Issues about the Lord’s Supper or Eucharist: Biblical and Historical Traditions	524
21.4. Baptism: The Problem of Diverse Preunderstandings and Interpretations	536
22. Eschatology: The Ultimate and Definitive Hermeneutical Horizon of Meaning	541
22.1. Four Hermeneutical Starting Points: Promise, Community, New Creation, and Apocalyptic	541
22.2. Three Further Hermeneutical Horizons: Hope, the Grammar of Expectation, and Time: The “Imminence” of the Parousia	546
22.3. The Hermeneutics of Language about the Resurrection: The Resurrection Mode of Existence	554
22.4. Controversial Interpretations of the Parousia and of the Last Judgment	565
22.5. The Transformation of Time, and Symbols of Sharing in Promised Glory	574

Contents

BIBLIOGRAPHY	582
INDEX OF NAMES	614
INDEX OF SUBJECTS	623
INDEX OF SCRIPTURE AND OTHER ANCIENT SOURCES	637