

Contents

List of contributors	ix
Foreword, Brian D. Joseph	x
Acknowledgments	xii
1. Introduction Koenraad Kuiper	1
2. A toolbox for teaching phonetics Jen Hay	4
3. Learning phonology as a way to learn how theories are improved Andrew Carstairs-McCarthy	13
4. Teaching morphology Laurie Bauer	27
5. Teaching syntax Sandra Chung	35
6. Teaching formal semantics Barbara H. Partee	40
7. Teaching pragmatics Christopher Potts	51
8. Teaching historical linguistics: A personal memoir Harold Koch	66
9. Teaching sociolinguistics Miriam Meyerhoff	87

10. Psycholinguistics for linguists Paul Warren	99
11. Teaching linguistic approaches to nonliteral language or We really knew how to have fun Diana Van Lancker Sidtis	110
12. Developmental psycholinguistics Susan Foster-Cohen	137
13. The value of linguistics to the ESL/EFL classroom practitioner David Mendelsohn	145
14. Games for exploring language origins and change Alison Wray	154
15. LING101 Koenraad Kuiper	182
16. 'Beyond compare': Supervising postgraduate research Janet Holmes	189
17. Field methods: Where the rubber meets the road Wes Collins	203
18. 'Two loaves where there seems to be one': Metaphors we teach by Kate Burridge	222
Index	234