

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Authors' Biographies	viii
Introduction: Depression before Depression	1
Allan Ingram and Stuart Sim
'Before Depression 1660–1800'	1
Cultural inheritance	3
Structure and topics	19
1 Fashionable Melancholy	25
Clark Lawlor
The core problem – the paradox of fashionable disease	25
Definitions of melancholy	27
Symptoms and narratives	33
Myths and realities of melancholy for Johnson and Boswell:
masculine melancholies	41
Women and melancholy genius	44
Tissot: class, gender and fashionable melancholy in the
Enlightenment	46
From fashionable sensibility to Romantic vitalism –
melancholy medicine and literature	51
2 Philosophical Melancholy	54
Richard Terry
Languages of mood	54
Coping with sorrow	60
Melancholy philosophy	65
The rewards of indifference	74
3 'Strange Contrarys': Figures of Melancholy in
Eighteenth-Century Poetry	83
John Baker
'Unhappy happiness'	83
On John Pomfret: 'The dark Recesses of the Mind'	87
On Anne Finch: 'Thro' thy black Jaundice I all Objects see'	91
On Matthew Green: 'Laugh and be well'	94

The hence and hail mode	97
On Edward Young: 'The great Magician's dead!'	101
The world as graveyard	105
'No Futurity'	107
On William Cowper: 'such a destin'd wretch as I'	108
4 Despair, Melancholy and the Novel	114
Stuart Sim
John Bunyan and the fictionalization of despair	116
Daniel Defoe: despair and the isolated self	120
Despairing of patriarchy: Samuel Richardson, Frances Burney and Mary Hays	123
Henry and Sarah Fielding: despair at human nature	130
Laurence Sterne: melancholy as default	133
William Godwin: despair without religious solace	136
James Hogg: deconstructing a genre	137
Conclusion: the secularization of despair	139
5 Melancholy, Medicine, Mad Moon and Marriage: Autobiographical Expressions of Depression	142
Leigh Wetherall-Dickson
Middle-class mind, body and soul: memoirs of 'A Private Gentleman'	145
Religious despair and medical desire: Anne Dutton	152
Matrimonial misery: Elizabeth Freke	157
'Mad moon' and masculine melancholy: Edmund Harrold	164
Balancing the books	168
6 Deciphering Difference: A Study in Medical Literacy	170
Allan Ingram
Being normal	170
'Doctoring the mind'	173
A promiscuity of symptoms, a plethora of cures	180
Profits and losses	185
A model physician	186
A secular priesthood	189
How to read	192
The study of life	200
Notes	203
Bibliography	228
Index	240