

Contents

Foreword by Michael Zank	xi
Preface	xxi
Abbreviations	xxiii
Introduction: From Weimar to Crete	1
1 The Enduring Influence of F. H. Jacobi	29
Appendix: Self-Deification in German Philosophy	63
2 The Double Envelopment of Cultural Zionism	75
Appendix: Strauss's First Zionist Publication	117
3 The Only Great Thinker in Our Time	143
Appendix: The Heidegger Footnote	181
4 A Radical Critique of Liberalism	195
Appendix: The 1933 Letter to Löwith	225
5 The Last Word in "Secularization"	235
Appendix: The Evanescence of the Weimar Paradox	281
6 To Master the Art of Writing	301
Appendix: The Future of Frankistan	349
7 The Theological-Political Problem's Final Solution	353
Appendix: My Personal Encounter with Straussianism	393
8 The Aristeia of Leo Strauss	403
Appendix: The Three Peoples of the Book	445
9 Ancients and Nazis	447
Appendix: Strauss's Letters to Klein, 1938 to 1939	493
Conclusion: Of Enemies and Friends: A Liberal's Response	511
Bibliography	529
Index	551
About the Author	591