

Contents

	Illustrations	ix
	Preface	xi
	Abbreviations	xv
	Introduction	3
PART I	Women and Books
1.	Women Writers, Writing for Women: Authors, Scribes, Book-Lenders, and Patrons	23
2.	Reading, Not Eating: Women Readers in Late Ancient Christian Asceticism	39
3.	Women's Literature? The Case of the Apocryphal Acts of the Apostles	53
PART II	Sexual/Textual Politics
4.	Sinners and Saints, Silent and Submissive? The Textual/Sexual Transformation of Female Characters in the New Testament and Beyond	69

5.	“First among All Women”: The Story of Thecla in Textual Transmission and Iconographic Remains	95
6.	Contesting the Ascetic Language of Eros: Textual Fluidity in the Apocryphal Acts of the Apostles	113
	Conclusion	129
	Notes	135
	Works Cited	165
	Citation Index	189
	General Index	195