
Contents

Acknowledgments.....	ix
Chapter One. Introduction.....	1
The Role of Women during the Spanish Civil War.....	2
Making Sense of the War Experience.....	7
Regarding Exile, Identity, and Autobiography	8
Exile and Identity	16
Chapter Two. Concealing and Conceiving the Self: Constanca de la Mora's Political Exile	19
From a Conservative Lineage to a Communist Affiliation.....	20
Political Circumstances and Textual Controversies.....	29
Performing for an American Audience	34
Chapter Three. Exiled Self, Exiled Nation: Identity Redefinition in María Teresa León's Memoria de la melancolía	45
What Inspires León to Tell Her Story?.....	46
Envisioning Communal Belonging	51
An Exile All Along	55
An Old Story After All?.....	65
Chapter Four. Performing the Self: Federica Montseny's Exilic Identities in Seis años de mi vida	71
Four Texts, One Personal Story.....	72
Life before Exile	75
Exile as an Identity Component	77
Exile: Experience and Self-Negotiation.....	78
Destabilization of Identity	89
Conclusion.....	93

Notes	99
Bibliography.....	105
Index.....	115