

Contents

Citation Information	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix

1. Introduction: Olympics, Media, and Society
Kim Bissell and Stephen D. Perry 1
2. The Olympics, Jesse Owens, Burke, and the Implications of Media Framing in Symbolic Boasting
Mike Milford 5

Part I: The 2008 Summer Games

3. Fans, Nonfans, and the Olympics: Predictors of Audience's Multiplatform Experience with the 2008 Beijing Games
Roger Cooper and Tang Tang 26
4. The Expediency of Hybridity: Beijing 2008
Robert Moses Peaslee and Shu-Ling Chen Berggreen 45
5. Media Reports of Olympic Success by Chinese and American Gold Medalists: Cultural Differences in Causal Attribution
Mei Hua and Alexis Tan 66
6. "Under the Weather": The Weather Effects on U.S. Newspaper Coverage of the 2008 Beijing Olympics
Bu Zhong and Yong Zhou 79

Part II: The 2010 Winter Games

7. When Symbols Clash: Legitimacy, Legality and the 2010 Winter Olympics
Karen-Marie Elah Perry and Helen Hyunji Kang 98

8. Go “Heavy” or Go Home: An Examination of Audience Attitudes and Their Relationship to Gender Cues in the 2010 Olympic Snowboarding Coverage Amy Jones and Jennifer Greer	118
9. “The More Things Change, the More They ...”: Commentary During Women’s Ice Hockey at the 2010 Olympic Games Kelly Poniatowski and Marie Hardin	142
Index	163