

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
1. Introduction: can creative labour be good work?	1
1.1 Good and bad work in the cultural industries	1
1.2 Creativity as doctrine	3
1.3 The critical backlash, the debate and our own approach	6
1.4 Definitions and boundaries	9
1.5 Research design: selection of industries and cases	10
1.6 Methods: interviews and participant observation	15
1.7 Outline of the book	17
PART ONE
Theoretical synthesis	23
2. A model of good and bad work	25
2.1 Marx on work and alienation	25
2.2 A sociological concept of alienation	27
2.3 Towards a model of good and bad work beyond alienation	30
2.4 Good products as good work	35
2.5 Autonomy as a feature of good work?	39
2.6 Self-realisation as a feature of good work?	43
2.7 Post-structuralist critique of work and the problem of values	44
2.8 Subjective experience	50
3. The specificity of creative labour	52
3.1 Outline of the chapter	52
3.2 Three approaches to cultural production	53
3.3 General neglect of labour in studies of cultural production and possible reasons	55
3.4 Political economy and the specificity of creative labour	56

- 3.5 Raymond Williams on the specificity of creative labour: the communication of experience 60
- 3.6 A critical conception of creative autonomy and its two variants 61
- 3.7 Creative work and social class 67
- 3.8 Cultural studies on creative labour: subjectivity and self-exploitation 70
- 3.9 The debate about creative work 75

PART TWO

Empirical study

79

4. The management of autonomy, creativity and commerce

81

- 4.1 Creativity, commerce and organisations 81
- 4.2 The creative management function 83
- 4.3 Managing creative autonomy: magazines 86
- 4.4 Managing creative autonomy: the case of music recording 92
- 4.5 Pressures of autonomy (1): marketisation in broadcasting 95
- 4.6 Pressures on autonomy (2): the rising power of marketing 103
- 4.7 Anxieties about autonomy 105
- 4.8 Pressures on autonomy (3): the obligation to network 108
- 4.9 Conclusions 111

5. Pay, hours, security, involvement, esteem and freedom

113

- 5.1 Quality of working life in the cultural industries 113
- 5.2 Pay, working hours and unions 114
- 5.3 Security and risk 121
- 5.4 Esteem and self-esteem 123
- 5.5 Challenge, interest and involvement 127
- 5.6 The experience of autonomy 136
- 5.7 Ambivalent experiences 137

6. Creative careers, self-realisation and sociality

139

- 6.1 Decline of the career? 139
- 6.2 Finding the right creative occupation 141
- 6.3 The fragility of creative careers 145
- 6.4 Defining yourself too much through creative work 148
- 6.5 Teamwork, socialising, networking 152
- 6.6 Isolation 156

7. Emotional and affective labour	159
7.1 Immaterial labour, affective labour and 'precarity'	159
7.2 Emotional labour	161
7.3 Media labour and symbolic power	164
7.4 The talent show: budget, commissioners and independents	166
7.5 Emotional labour and the anxieties of star-making	170
7.6 Pleasure and sociality on the production team	173
7.7 Affective labour and immanent cooperation?	176
7.8 Conclusions	179
8. Creative products, good and bad	181
8.1 Questions of quality	181
8.2 Pleasures and satisfactions of making good cultural products	182
8.3 Conceptions of good texts	187
8.4 Bad texts: frustration and disappointment	190
8.5 Conceptions and explanations of poor quality work	192
8.6 Negative and positive experiences of quality	198
9. Audiences, quality and the meaning of creative work	200
9.1 Creative workers thinking about what audiences think	200
9.2 Magazines: is the reader everything?	201
9.3 Music: a communicative thing or a private thing?	206
9.4 What can audiences handle?	210
9.5 Television and audience size: ratings tyranny?	214
9.6 Audiences, ambivalence and projection	219
10. The politics of good and bad work	220
10.1 The hardest way to make an easy living?	220
10.2 Unions and the struggle for good creative work	222
10.3 Work and life: choosing not to self-exploit?	226
10.4 Spreading good and bad work: how intractable is the social division of labour?	228
Appendix: the interviews	235
References	238
Index	253