

Contents

Acknowledgements x

Abbreviations xi

Chronology xiii

One

Adorno's life and philosophical motivations 1

1. Life and philosophical development 2

2. Fundamental commitments and philosophical style 14

Further reading 22

Two

Society 23

1. The social totality 26

2. Criticisms of Adorno's idea of totality 37

3. Immanent critique of society 44

Summary 51

Further reading 53

	Three
	Experience	54
1.	Reification and epistemology	55
2.	An Hegelian conception of experience	60
	3. Mediation	66
	4. Subject and object	71
5.	Identity and nonidentity	76
	Summary	83
	Further reading	85
	Four
	Metaphysics	86
1.	Metaphysics and philosophy	87
	2. Against metaphysics	89
3.	A metaphysics of nonidentity	100
	Summary	107
	Further reading	109
	Five
	Freedom and morality	110
1.	Freedom and the dialectic of Enlightenment	112
	2. Autonomy as ideology	115
	3. Autonomy as repression	120
	4. Autonomy as resistance	130
	5. Morality	135
	Summary	145
	Further reading	146
	Six
	Aesthetics	147
	1. Mimesis	149
2.	Mimesis and the dialectic of Enlightenment	151
3.	Mimesis, imitation and aesthetic theory	154
4.	Kafka and the mimesis of reification	158

5. Mimesis and aesthetic experience	163
6. The rationality of mimesis	171
7. The autonomy of art	173
8. The culture industry and heteronomy	176
9. Autonomous art as social criticism	179
10. The autonomy of art and the possibility of aesthetic experience	182
Summary	184
Further reading	186

Seven
Adorno's philosophical legacy 188

Glossary* 199

Notes* 203

Bibliography* 205

Index* 216