

Inhalt

Vorwort des Herausgebers	7
In memoriam László Dobszay	8
In memoriam Michel Huglo	9
Vienna CP, Opening Welcome Barbara Hagg-Huglo	10
Newly discovered Antiphoners in northern Portugal Diogo Alte da Veiga	13
The Anonymus Vaticanus and the Paleofrankish Script Charles M. Atkinson	20
Tone-series in ecclesiastical chant Terence Bailey	27
The Dominican Antiphoner from the Badija Franciscan Monastery near Korčula: The Question of Provenance* Hrvoje Beban	33
Beobachtungen zur Seckauer Prozessionspraxis anhand des Liber ordinarius A-Gu 756 von 1345 - Cum vero processionem facimus quasi hostibus armati obviamus Inga Behrendt	38
Interrelations between theory and practice. Influence of theorists' pattern-antiphons on initial formulas of some introits and graduals Robert Bernagiewicz	44
FAMULA DEI - textliche und musikalische Besonderheiten in den Meßproprien heiliger Frauen in adiastematischen Handschriften aus St. Gallen und Einsiedeln Dirk van Betteray	51
A (Brief) Introduction to Post-Tridentine Pontifical Chants James Borders	58
Examples of Liturgical Polyphony from Dalmatia Hana Breko Kustura	66
The Web of Sources for Planctus ante nescia Charles E. Brewer	72
Processing from Lateran to Hierusalem and Back: A Unique Ritual for the Cross Relic Clyde Brockett	78
Mensura as a technical term in chant theory John Caldwell	84
Beyond diastemata: specific and semitonic indications in the gradual of Saint-Yrieix (Paris, Bibliothèque Nationale de France, Latin 903, XIth century) Christelle Cazaux-Kowalski	89
Traditionalism and New Influences in an 18th Century Gradual of the Zagreb Cathedral with a Special Focus on the Alleluia Repertory Orsolya Csomó	96
Die coniunctae des Corpus Hollandrinum in den mitteleuropäischen Choralhandschriften Zsuzsa Czagány	102
The question of plainchant notation in French Post-Tridentine sources Towards a specific semiology Cécile Davy-Rigaux	113

A Newly Discovered Source of Ordinary Chants in Cantus Planus and Cantus Fractus: A Preliminary Report Joseph Dyer	121
Die Evangeliumsantiphonen der Donnerstage in der Fastenzeit David Eben	127
Die liturgischen Handschriften aus St. Lambrecht (Steiermark) Stefan Engels	135
A Portuguese plainchant treatise Manuel Pedro Ferreira	143
Medieval Music through the Technological Looking-Glass Carmen Julia Gutiérrez	149
CORPUS MONODICUM – Die einstimmige Musik des lateinischen Mittelalters Andreas Haug	159
‘Venite et videte’: First Results in the Optical Neume Recognition Project Kate Helsen, with Inga Behrendt and Alan Sexton	161
CANTUS PLANUS REGENSBURG – Web Archive for Gregorian Chant David Hiley and Robert Klugseder	166
The Sequence Sancti Spiritus in the Nidaros Tradition Marit Johanne Høye	168
Assonance, Variation, Repetition: Editing Prosulas to the Gloria Chant Gunilla Iversen	178
The Tridentinum as a Watershed in the Evolution of Mass cycles Gábor Kiss	186
Medieval musical manuscripts and fragments in the Austrian National Library (ÖNB), Vienna Robert Klugseder	192
Renewal, Revival, Rejuvenation: a New Vision for the CANTUS Database Jan Kolářček and Debra Lacoste	202
Compositions of Credo: Influences of Latin settings on the respective Byzantine ones of Cretan origin (16th-17th cent.) Flora Kritikou	210
Elastic Melodies: Variants in Responsory Verses Debra Lacoste	218
Cultural Intersections in the Transmission of Office Hymns in the Southern Low Countries Sarah Ann Long	226
Liturgical-musical sources in the votive processions of the bishop of Padua, Pietro Barozzi (1443-1507) Antonio Lovato	233
Toward a Methodology for Analyzing the Old Hispanic Responsories Rebecca Maloy and Emma Hornby	242
Habitable surface, habitable space: Graphic contour and melodic constraints for Buddhist chant in early Japan Elizabeth Markham	250
Vind. Suppl. gr. 121: ein Fragment eines Tetraevangeliars mit ekphonetischer Notation in der Österreichischen Nationalbibliothek* Sandra Martani	259
Das von Johannes Winterburger gedruckte Antiphonar aus dem Jahr 1519: ein Antiphonale Pataviense? David Merlin	267
From the rite of the Oblation to the offering scene in the Officium Stellae musico-liturgical drama. Reges Tharsis et insulae munera offerent, reges Arabum et Saba dona adducent Nausica Morandi	276

Digital Editing of chant - tools in progress Stefan Johannes Morent	281
“Fecit” quattuor historie? Ann-Marie Nilsson	284
Antiphonal Psalmody in Western Monasticism from the Fourth to the Seventh Century Edward Nowacki	295
Traditio Iohannis Hollandrini - Tonare Ágnes Papp	301
Non Pitch-Specific Notation in Practice and Transcription: Beneventan Chant in campo aperto and in voce Matthew Peattie	309
Musical references in Serbian hagiography (Žitija) and liturgical poetry (Srbljak) Ivana Perković	316
Zur Vorgeschichte des lateinischen Acht-Tonarten-Systems Andreas Pfisterer	321
A Pair of Manuscripts transmitting the Triodion and Pentekostarion in the Russian Studite Tradition - Identifying the prototypes Svetlana Poliakova	327
Gesang an der Peripherie – Die Choralhandschriften in der Bibliothek des Augustiner-Chorherrenstiftes Vorau Franz Karl Praßl	332
Un foyer d’avant-garde dans l’introduction du chant grégorien en Castille: La cathédrale de Palencia (1034-1080) Juan Pablo Rubio	344
Political changes and music writing styles in 11th century Bologna Cesarino Ruini	349
The Application of the CANTUS Analysis Tool to the Neumed Breviary VI E 4c from St George’s Convent, Prague Tereza Seifertová	355
Ruotlib’s notated missal and its historical background Jurij Snoj	361
Notation als Spiegel der Veränderungen in der “nunquam reformata” Tradition am Beispiel der mittelalterlichen Antiphonarien aus der Kartause Žiče (Seiz/Seitz). Katarina Šter	367
Das Sequenzenrepertoire der österreichischen Benediktiner Györgyi Táborzsky	376
Musical liturgical fragments in the Historical Municipal Archive of Casperia (Latium - Italy) Nicola Tangari	383
Castles of faith: The transmission of the Kyrie trope set Deus solus et immensus as an example of liturgical exegesis in the orthodoxy Arturo Tello Ruiz-Pérez	388
Inedite fonti italiane della Passione in notazione ritmico-proporzionale Diego Toigo	394
The Hymnic Corpus in the Manuscript Plainsong Choirbooks at Segovia Cathedral - Tradition, Re-elaboration and New Composition* Santiago Ruiz Torres	403
The conception of the chant of the ‘Other’: evidence from medieval literary sources Christian Troelsgård	408
Pitch, Rhythm and Text-Setting in Palaeofrankish Notation: The Case of London, British Library, Harley MS 3019 Giovanni Varelli	413

Liturgical contradictions and political consistency in the liturgico-musical tradition of St. Mark's, Venice Anna Vildera	419
Offertoriale Arnesti: A Forthcoming Edition of Plainchant Offertories with Verses from Bohemian Sources Jana Vozková	425
The New Web site www.chantdiscography.com: A Demonstration Jerome F. Weber	429
Untersuchungen zur lateinischen Tradition des byzantinischen Akathistos Hymnus Gerda Wolfram	431
Die musikalisch-liturgischen Quellen des Hochmittelalters aus dem österreichischen Benediktinerstift Admont Hanna Zühlke	438
PROGRAM	453