CONTENTS

List of Illustrations viii
Preface xvii
Acknowledgments xxi
List of Abbreviations xxiii

Introduction 3
II. The Leader and the Divine: Official and Nonofficial Modes of Representation 69
   Appendix: A Colossal Statue of Titus or Domitian and the Neokorate Temples of Ephesos 116
III. The Cult Statue of Julius Caesar and Heroic and Divine Imagery of Deified Leaders in the Late Republic and Early Principate 133
IV. From Warrior to Statesman in Art and Ideology: Octavian/Augustus and the Image of Alexander the Great 162
   Appendix: Triumphal Frieze of the Actian Victory Monument at Nikopolis 191
V. The Ideology of “Peace through Victory” and the Ara Pacis Augustae: Visual Rhetoric and the Creation of a Dynastic Narrative 204
   Appendix A: The “Aeneas Panel” of the Ara Pacis 242
   Appendix B: The Mausoleum of Augustus and Its Quadrigate Imagery 248
   Appendix C: The Ustrinum Augusti 257
VI. The Acanthus of the Ara Pacis as an Apolline and Dionysiac Symbol of Anamorphosis, Anakyklosis, and Numen Mixtum 271

VII. The Smaller Cancelleria ("Vicomagistri") Reliefs and Julio-Claudian Imperial Altars: Limitations of the Evidence and Problems in Interpretation 309
  Appendix: The Ara Providentiae Augustae, Colossal Seated Statue of Augustus, and Julio-Claudian Ideology 354

VIII. The "Insanity" of Caligula or the "Insanity" of the Jews? Differences in Perception and Religious Beliefs 369
  Appendix: The Portraiture of Caligula—Myth, Reality, and Contemporary Attempts at Polychromy 397

IX. "Star Power" in Imperial Rome: Astral Theology, Castorian Imagery, and the Dual Heirs in the Transmission of Leadership 412
  Conclusion 455

Bibliography 489
General Index 525
Index of Museums and Collections 546