

Table of Contents

Introduction

Berber Bevernage and Chris Lorenz:

Breaking up Time –

Negotiating the Borders between Present, Past and Future 7

1. Time and Modernity: Critical Approaches to Koselleck's Legacy

Aleida Assmann:

Transformations of the Modern Time Regime 39

Peter Fritzsche:

The Ruins of Modernity 57

Peter Osborne:

Global Modernity and the Contemporary:

Two Categories of the Philosophy of Historical Time 69

2. Ruptures in Time: Revolutions and Wars

Sanja Perovic:

Year 1 and Year 61 of the French Revolution:

The Revolutionary Calendar and Auguste Comte 87

Claudia Verhoeven:

Wormholes in Russian History: Events 'Outside of Time' 109

François Hartog:

The Modern Régime of Historicity in the Face of Two World Wars . . . 124

Lucian Hölscher:

Mysteries of Historical Order: Ruptures, Simultaneity and the Relationship of the Past, the Present and the Future 134

3. Thinking about Time: Analytical Approaches

Jonathan Gorman:

The Limits of Historiographical Choice in Temporal Distinctions . . . 155

Constantin Fasolt:

Breaking up Time – Escaping from Time: Self-Assertion and Knowledge of the Past 176

4. Time outside Europe: Imperialism, Colonialism and Globalisation

Lynn Hunt:

Globalisation and Time 199

Stefan Tanaka:

Unification of Time and the Fragmentation of Pasts in Meiji Japan . . 216

Axel Schneider:

Temporal Hierarchies and Moral Leadership: China's Engagement with Modern Views of History 236

William Gallois:

The War for Time in Early Colonial Algeria 252

Notes on Authors 274