

Contents

VOLUME II – HIS THEORETICAL APPROACH RECONSIDERED

Jürgen Backhaus

Introduction 9

Karl-Heinz Schmidt

Sombart on Population 13

Introduction (13) – Sombart's Questions (17) – Empirical Data on the Population (19) – Sombart's Typology of Population Theories (20) – Population and Agglomeration (25) – Conclusions (27)

Dieter Schneider

Sombart or Spirit and Accountability of Capitalism as

»Enthusiastic Lyricism« 31

The Problem: A Scientific Approach to Break the Spell on Marx' Analysis of Capitalism? (31) – Capitalism, Spirit of Capitalism and Entrepreneur (33) – Capitalism, Capital, and Double-Entry Book-keeping (42) – Conclusion (49)

Jacob J. Krabbe

Nature and Technology as Economic Categories: Sombart in the Mainstream 57

Economics and Technics (57) – From Technics to Technology (59) – Natural Resources in Economic Development (61) – Sombart as Predecessor (62) – Conclusions (63)

Johannes M. Hanel

Technology and Sciences under Modern Capitalism – Sombart's Forgotten Question: How Can Scientists and Engineers be Free and Responsible for Nature and Culture if Innovation is Induced by the Economic System? 65

Sombart's »Implicit Influence« on the Notion of Technology's Induction (68) – The Economic System's Pull on Technics (71) – The Inventor's Urge to Invent as the Source of Technics from Renaissance to Baroque (Early Capitalism) (73) – Technology Including Natural Sciences as Governed by High Capitalism (80) – The Impossibility of Technology Assessment if Technology is Induced (93) – Return to Organic Technics in German Socialism (105) – The Consequences of Induced Technology on the Philosophy and Freedom of the Sciences (120)

Günther Chaloupek

Long Term Economic Trends in the Light of Werner Sombart's Concept of »Spätkapitalismus«	163
Werner Sombart's Spätkapitalismus (163) – Agriculture and International Division of Labor (168) – Growing National Autarky (170) – Stagnation (172) – Economic Planning and Socialism (175) – Sombart's Perspectives Compared (176)

Harald Hagemann and Michael Landesmann

Sombart and Economic Dynamics	179
Sombart's Stages Theory of Development of Capitalism (179) – Sombart's Theory of the Business Cycle (184) – Technology and Forms of Production Organisation (189) – Sombart's Contribution to a Theory of Economic Dynamics : an Assessment (197)

Günther Chaloupek

A Note on Harald Hagemann/Michael Landesmann, Sombart and Economic Dynamics	205
---	-----

Zoltan Kenessey

The Scope of Output and the Productive Sectors: German Contributions in the 19th Century	207
Views From Antiquity, Mediaval Times, and Islam (208) – The Mercantilists' Position (210) – The Views of the Physiocrats and the Chinese Connection (211) – The Impact of the Advent of German Historical Economics (215) – Positions Taken by Members of the German Historical Schools (218) – Notes on Sombart (222) – Conclusions (228)

Horst K. Betz

Werner Sombart's Theory of the City	233
---	-----

Friedrich Lenger

Marx, the Crafts, and the First Edition of Modern Capitalism 251

The Reception of Marxism and the Controversies over Social Policy (254) – Crafts and Capitalism : Theory and Developmental History (260) – The Psychogenesis of Capitalism and the Motivations of Human Beings (265) – Conclusion (269)

Jörg Glombowski

Werner Sombart's Why is there no Socialism in the United States?
Revisited 275

Sombart's Book and the Literature on the Question (275) – Contents of the Book (277) – The Development of Sombart's Position on the Issue (285) – Credits and Criticisms (291) – Concluding Remarks (295)

Manfred Prisching

The Entrepreneur and His Capitalist Spirit
– Sombart's Psycho-Historical Model 301

The Functions of the Entrepreneur (302) – Dynamics and Adventure (305) – Calculation and Rationality (311) – The Genesis of Entrepreneurship (313) – The Entrepreneurial Personality (320) – The Future of the Entrepreneurial Class (324)