

Contents

List of figures and tables	v
Notes on contributors	vii
Introduction Isabelle Albert and Dieter Ferring	1
Part I: Conceptual issues regarding intergenerational relations	13
one Demographic ageing, labour market regulation and intergenerational relations Amílcar Moreira	15
two Intergenerational solidarity in families: interplay between the family and the state Kairi Kasearu and Dagmar Kutsar	25
three Intergenerational ambivalence: beyond solidarity and conflict Kurt Lüscher and Andreas Hoff	39
four Intergenerational policy and the study of intergenerational relationships: a tentative proposal Kurt Lüscher	65
Part II: Multigenerational and cross-cultural perspectives	83
five Intergenerational congruence of attachment: limitations of findings Katarzyna Lubiewska	85
six Value transmission between parents and their adolescent children: the process and its outcomes. A psycho-social perspective Daniela Barni, Rosa Rosnati and Sonia Ranieri	101
seven Value orientations and perception of social change in post-communist Romania Mihaela Friedlmeier and Alin Gavreliuc	119
eight Intergenerational conflict: the case of adult children and their parents Beate Schwarz	131
nine Grandparent–grandchild relations in a changing society: different types and roles Isabelle Albert and Dieter Ferring	147
ten Family change theory: a preliminary evaluation on the basis of recent cross-cultural studies Boris Mayer	167

Part III: Applied issues and practical focus		189
eleven	How does family sociology contribute to the definition and measurement of a concept of family care for elderly persons? Amandine J. Masuy	191
twelve	Intergenerational solidarity in an ageing society: socio-demographic determinants of intergenerational support to elderly parents Susana Coimbra, Luísa A. Ribeiro and Anne Marie Fontaine	205
thirteen	Family caregiving for older people from a life-span developmental point of view Thomas Boll and Dieter Ferring	223
	Where do we go from here? An epilogue concerning the importance of the of solidarity between generations Dieter Ferring and Isabelle Albert	241
	Index	245