Contents

List of Figures ix
List of Tables xi
List of Appendixes xiii
Acknowledgments xv

Introduction 1

1 Spoken and Written Discourse in the Digital Age 8
1.1 An Agenda for Spoken and Written Discourse 8
1.2 A Sociocultural Outline of the History of Orality and Literature 12
1.3 Speech and Writing: A Linguistic Perspective 21
1.4 Speech and Writing in the Digital Age 34
1.5 Digital explorations: An Overview of Methods and Data 45

2 Spontaneous Web-based Video Interactions 51
2.1 Reinterpreting Semiotic Resources in the Light of the Videochat 51
2.2 A Sociolinguistic Survey Into Self-Perceptions in Videochat Use 63
2.3 A Multimodal Analysis of Multiparty Videochat Interactions 68
2.4 Fetish or Simulacrum? 88

3 Writing Out into the Abyss: Polymorphic BlogEng 117
3.1 BlogEng 117
3.2 A Methodological Overview 128
3.3 A Multimodal Analysis: Issues and Definitions 139
3.4 Blogging as Ongoing Conversation: A Corpus Linguistics Case Study 149
3.5 Integration or Compartmentalization? Speech Participation Vs. Writing Secrets 167

4 Interacting on a Global Scale: Speech and Writing in YouTube Comments 171
4.1 Forms of Transitions 171
4.2 Charlie Bit My Finger —Again! A Case Study of a Viral Video 181
4.3 A Multimodal Relevance Maxim 204
4.4 Self-representation and Identity: Verbal, Visual or Multimodal? 209

Conclusions 213

References 219
Index 237