

Contents

New developments in corpus linguistics and the study of language variation and change Kristin Bech and Gisle Andersen	1
Variation in time: Corpus studies in the history of English
Writing the corpus-based history of spoken English: The elusive past of a cleft construction Christian Mair	11
Discourse communities and their writing styles: A case study of Robert Boyle Lilo Moessner	31
The diphthongisation of ME ī : The spelling evidence Gjertrud F. Stenbrenden	53
Variation in space: Corpus studies of contemporary features of English
Verb complementation in South Asian English(es): The range and frequency of “new” ditransitives Christopher Koch and Tobias Bernaisch	69
Functional variation in the English present perfect: A cross-varietal study Xinyue Yao and Peter Collins	91
Gender, culture and language: Evidence from language corpora about the development of cultural differences between English-speaking countries Johan Elsness	113
Clause-final man in Tyneside English Kathrin Luckmann de Lopez	139
They have published a new cultural policy that just come out: Competing forms in spoken and written New Englishes Cristina Suárez-Gómez and Elena Seoane	163

Variation in genre: Corpus studies of English for Specific Purposes

- Exploring the dialogism of academic discourse: Heteroglossic Engagement in medical research articles 183
Daniel Lees Fryer
- Texturing a responsible corporate identity: A comparative analysis of Appraisal in BP's and IKEA's 2009 corporate social reports 209
Matteo Fuoli
- How specific is English for Academic Purposes? A look at verbs in business, linguistics and medical research articles 237
Natassia Schutz