

Contents

Contributors vii

Introduction ix

Section 1 Musical expressiveness

- 1 Section introduction 3
Tom Cochrane
- 2 Sad flowers: analyzing affective trajectory in Schubert's "Trockne Blumen" 7
Michael Spitzer
- 3 Composing the expressive qualities of music 23
Tom Cochrane
- 4 The emotional power of musical performance 41
Daniel Leech-Wilkinson
- 5 The singer's paradox: on authenticity in emotional expression on the opera stage 55
Klaus R. Scherer
- 6 On the resistance of the instrument 75
Tom Cochrane
- 7 Gender ambivalence and the expression of passions in the performances of early Roman cantatas by castrati and female singers 85
Christine Jeanneret
- 8 The ethos of modes during the Renaissance 103
Claude Victor Palisca

Section 2 Emotion elicitation

- 9 Section introduction 117
Klaus R. Scherer
- 10 How music creates emotion: a multifactorial process approach 121
Klaus R. Scherer and Eduardo Coutinho
- 11 "Mors stupebit": multiple levels of fear-arousing mechanisms in Verdi's Messa da Requiem 147
Luca Zoppelli
- 12 Three theories of emotion—three routes for musical arousal 155
Jenefer Robinson
- 13 Music-to-listener emotional contagion 169
Stephen Davies

- 14 Empathy, enactment, and shared musical experience: evidence from infant cognition 177
Joel Krueger
- 15 Music, action, and affect 197
Lincoln John Colling and William Forde Thompson
- 16 Rhythmic entrainment as a mechanism for emotion induction by music: a neurophysiological perspective 213
Wiebke Trost and Patrik Vuilleumier
- 17 Striking a chord in the brain: neurophysiological correlates of music-evoked positive emotions 227
Stefan Koelsch

Section 3 The powers of music

- 18 Section introduction 253
Bernardino Fantini
- 19 Forms of thought between music and science 257
Bernardino Fantini (translation by Kristen Gray Jafflin)
- 20 Control and the science of affect: music and power in the medieval and Renaissance periods 271
Laurence Wuidar (translation by Kristen Gray Jafflin)
- 21 The psychotropic power of music during the Renaissance 287
Brenno Boccadoro (translation by Kristen Gray Jafflin)
- 22 Music as a means of social control: some examples of practice and theory in early modern Europe 307
Penelope Gouk
- 23 The tradition of ancient music therapy in the 18th century 315
Jackie Pigeaud (translation by Kristen Gray Jafflin)
- 24 On nostalgia 329
Jean Starobinski (translation by Kristen Gray Jafflin)
- 25 Emotions, identity, and copyright control: the constitutive role of affect attunement and its implications for the ontology of music 341
Ulrik Volgsten

Coda 357

Appendix to “Gender ambivalence and the expression of passions”
by Christine Jeanneret 359

Index 371