

Contents

Acknowledgements	11
Preface	12
I From Perception to Action: The Need to Overcome Contradictory Attitudes
Environment and Resources – Natural and Human Dimensions of “Global Change” Bruno Messerli, Berne	17
Giving the Power of Nature an Adaptive Hand of Culture Frank Klötzli, Zurich	37
L’Etre humain et la planète Terre Carmina Virgili, Paris	43
Soil Loss in a Contradictory World: The Loss of an Unrenewable Resource José M. García-Ruiz, Zaragoza	59
Counterpoint 1:
Of What I Do Marischa Burckhardt, Basel	71
II Pleading for Fundamental Reforms in Culture
Ecological Ethics as an Ethics of Physical and Moral Survival. Towards a Morality of All-Embracing Communication and Solidarity Nicolás M. Sosa, Salamanca	87
La nature – une cité. Vers une constitution politique de la nature Beat Sitter-Liver, Fribourg	105
Natura sive Deus Rudolf zur Lippe, Hude	125
L’aspect temporel de la protection de la nature. La dimension juridico-politique Peter Saladin, Berne	137
Le refoulement de la nature en économie – Possibilités d’une nouvelle perception Hans Christoph Binswanger, St-Gall	151
Counterpoint 2:
Senses and Sense – for an Aesthetics of Life Beatrix Sitter-Liver, Berne	163

III Ways to Improvement: Some Examples

Postmaterialism and the Social Ecosystem Juan Díez Nicolás, Madrid	179
Une éducation à la responsabilité envers la nature Regula Kyburz-Graber, Zurich	193
Visual Communication as Part of Human Nature Christian Thomas, Zurich	203
Tourisme et mobilité Claude Kaspar, St-Gall	223
Tourism and the Environment: Sustainable Development and a New Culture for Tourism J. Fernando Vera Rebollo, Alicante	231
Wastes, Science, and Society Luis Gutiérrez Jodra, Madrid	245

Counterpoint 3:

Humbly, with Head Held High Ingeborg Lüscher, Tegna	265
--	-----

IV Expected Achievements: Hard, Critical, yet Rewarding

Environnement et développement en Méditerranée: Les avenir possibles Michel Batisse, Paris	281
Diversité biologique et diversité culturelle: Les fondements de l'universel Francesco di Castri, Montpellier	295
A Trip to Doñana National Park – to a Paradise Lost? Francisco García Novo, Seville	315

Appendix

The Project at the Swiss Pavilion of EXPO '92 in Seville	333
Theses and Posters	334
«Piedras para tropezar»	338
The Authors	341
Abbreviations	347
Index of Names	348