
•

CONTENTS

•

List of illustrations	page xii
Preface	xiii
I Introduction	I
Latin Christendom, p. 2; Defining 'the church', p. 6.
2 The Faith and its demands	10
Background to a definition: the religious ferment of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, p. 10; Definitions: Creeds, church, and Christianity, p. 15; Beyond the Creeds: expanding definitions in the thirteenth century, p. 21; Faith for the people: instruction for the laity, p. 25; Sacraments, p. 30; Intercession: saints and Purgatory, p. 35; Tensions and authority, p. 39.
3 Access to the Faith	42
Structures of authority and channels of communication	43
The church and its hierarchy, p. 43; Authority and uniformity, p. 51; The clergy as instructors: training, p. 52; Religion for the laity: manuals for clergy and laity, p. 59; Religion for the laity: sermons and preaching, p. 64.
Modes of acquisition	71
The Bible, p. 73; Books and literacy, p. 78; Drama, p. 82; Icons and iconography, p. 85; Localism, p. 90.

4	Religious life	92
	Liturgical experience	93
	Calendars, conformity, and particularism, p. 93; The mass, p. 98.
	A structured life	102
	The potential for a lay religious life, p. 102; The laity and the regular orders, p. 106; Quasi-regular lay movements, p. 108; Guilds and fraternities, p. 116; Domestic regularity, p. 122; Personal regularity: widows, hermits, and anchorites, p. 126.
5	Devotion	136
	The mass	137
	Intercessors	142
	Christ-centred devotions, p. 142; Mary, p. 144; Saints and their making, p. 145; Creation of a cult, p. 153; Relics, p. 158; Images, p. 161; Miracles, p. 162; Pilgrimage, p. 165; Personal devotion: names and naming, p. 168; Collective cults and guardian angels, p. 170.
	Man and God	172
	Options, p. 172; Humanism, p. 175; Mysticism, p. 177.
	'Superstition'	182
	Magic and sacramentals, p. 182; Elite and popular religion, p. 184; Cosmology, p. 188.
6	The pilgrimage of life and death	191
	The pilgrimage	193
	The idea of pilgrimage and the battle against sin, p. 193; Death, p. 199; Prophecy and apocalypse, p. 203.
	Caritas	206
	The role of charity, p. 206; Charity and social imperatives, p. 207; Rich and poor, p. 209; Giving: death and life, p. 212; Structured charity: fraternities, p. 215; Indulgences, p. 217.
	Pray for me . . .	225
	Strategies for remembrance: post mortem commemorations, p. 226; The dead and the living, p. 232.
7	Priests, people, and power	235
	The priests and their roles, p. 236; Lay expectations, p. 241; The laity in control?, p. 244; The problem of 'ant clericalism', p. 249; Who controls piety?, p. 252.

8 Inclusion and exclusion	257
Bring them in . . .	259
Problems of conversion, p. 260; Crusades, p. 264.
The enemy within	267
A threatened church, p. 267; Over-enthusiasm, p. 270;
Heresy, p. 272; Greeks and other 'denominations', p. 275;
Jews, p. 278; Islam, p. 285; The problem of scapegoats,
p. 289; The devil and his disciples, p. 291.
Christian society	293
Tensions, p. 293; An excluding church: excommunication and interdict, p. 295; Lepers, p. 298; Serfs and slaves,
p. 299; Women, p. 303; Men, p. 306.
A summing up	308
9 The reality of religion	311
The nature of religious experience	312
Labels, p. 312; Vitality and change, p. 314.
Living faith	318
Individuals and experiences, p. 318; Deathbed religion,
p. 322; Life-time religion, p. 327.
Dubius in fide infidelis est?	329
Scepticism: its existence and meaning, p. 329; The nature of doubt, p. 333; Ignorance, p. 336; Ambiguity, p. 338.
Things to come	340
Bibliography	343
Index	359