

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Preface	ix
1	Rome, Constantinople, and the Barbarians	1
2	An Empire Unmade: Rome, A.D. 300-600	33
3	The Date and Purpose of Vegetius' De Re Militari	45
4	Zosimus, the First Historian of Rome's Fall	81
5	The Theme of 'The Barbarian Invasions' in Later Antique and Modern Historiography	111
6	The Supposedly 'Frankish' Table of Nations: an Edition and Study	133
7	From Roman Taxation to Medieval Seigneurie: Three Notes
	1 The Iugum in Ostrogothic Italy	167
	2 The Ambulatory Hide	177
	3 Flodoard and the Frankish Polyptychs	190
8	Old and New in Merovingian Taxation	213
9	Merovingian Polyptychs: Reflections on Two Recent Publications	233
10	From Historiae to Historia Francorum and Back Again: Aspects of the Textual History of Gregory of Tours	255
11	Foreigners in the Histories of Gregory of Tours	275
12	The Conversions of Avitus of Clermont and Similar Passages in Gregory of Tours	293
13	The Fredegar Problem Reconsidered	319
Index		355