

Contents

Series Preface	viii
Chronology	ix
Introduction	i
Some Omissions	4
Colonial Spaces and Colonial Ideologies	6
General Categories and Specific Cases	9
Possible Unities and the Use of Theory	13
About this Book	15
Chapter 1 Finding a Voice	23
Macaulay's Minute	24
Trading with Tradition: Derek Walcott	27
Where Language is Concealed: Eavan Boland	30
The Empire Writes Back	33
Very Indian English: Nissim Ezekiel	34
The Language of the African Novel: Ngũgĩ and Achebe	38
The Palm-oil with which Words are Eaten: Chinua Achebe, Things Fall Apart	40
Rotten English: Ken Saro-Wiwa, Sozaboy	44
Mongrels and Silence: Keri Hulme, The Bone People	47
Summary	50

Chapter 2 The Need to Belong	54
From Terra Nullius to the Mabo Decision	55
In the Interior: Patrick White, Voss	57
Immemorial and Recent: Les Murray	60
The Time of the Nation and the Space of the People	63
Claiming the City: Sam Selvon, The Lonely Londoners	66
Hating the Place you Love: James Berry, Windrush
Songs	69
New Beginnings and Responsibilities: J. M. Coetzee,
Disgrace	72
Summary	75
Chapter 3 Coming of Age, Coming into Difference	79
National Allegory	81
A Shadow of the Nation: Roddy Doyle, A Star Called
Henry	83
In Two Minorities: Shyam Selvadurai, Funny Boy	86
Natural and Ethical Behaviour: Shani Mootoo, Cereus
Blooms at Night	89
Trapped: Tsitsi Dangarembga, Nervous Conditions	92
Inheritance and Accidents: Zadie Smith, White Teeth	95
Summary	99
Chapter 4 Communities, Values, Transgressions	101
Learning to Listen: Nadine Gordimer, Burger's Daughter	104
Avoiding Historical Pitfalls: Thomas King, Truth and
Bright Water	108
Motes in the Eye of History: Diaspora Space	112
How Newness Enters the World: Salman Rushdie, The
Satanic Verses	114
The Rushdie Affair and the Umma	117
Faith with and without Agency: Leila Aboulela, Minaret	119
Nostalgia and Resistance: Mohsin Hamid, The Reluctant
Fundamentalist	123
Summary	125
Chapter 5 War Zones	129
Frantz Fanon and the Cleansing Power of Violence	130

Ghosts from the Future: V. S. Naipaul, A Bend in the River	133
True Nationalism: Tahmima Anam, A Golden Age	137
A Ban on Wreaths: Agha Shahid Ali, The Country Without a Post Office	140
States of Exception, Biopolitics and Necropolitics	143
A Duty to Stay Alive: Chris Abani, 'Buffalo Women'	147
Giving Your Life for the Truth: Michael Ondaatje, Anil's Ghost	150
Summary	154
Chapter 6 Challenging Histories	157
A Scab on the Wounds of History: Anita Desai, Clear Light of Day	160
Squaring History's Books: Arundhati Roy, The God of Small Things	163
Can the Subaltern Speak?	167
Made Noble in the Fire: Peter Carey, True History of the Kelly Gang	169
The Sort of Secrets You Could Use: Sally Morgan, My Place	172
Beyond the Mesmeric Power of Tradition: Black Atlantic Histories	175
Not Going Home: Caryl Phillips, The Atlantic Sound	178
A Terror of Symbols: Amitav Ghosh, In an Antique Land	181
Summary	183
Conclusion	187
Student Resources	194
Guide to Further Reading	194
Writing about Postcolonial Literature	212
Index	217