

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction
Revising The Legacy of Kinlessness Through Elders and Ancestors	1
Part I Preface: The Elder as Culture Bearer	27
Chapter 1
Othermothers as Elders and Culture Bearers in Daughters of the Dust and The Salt Eaters	31
Part II Preface: The Dead Are Not Dead: The Ancestral Presence	55
Chapter 2
Ancestral Prodding in Praisesong for the Widow	59
Chapter 3
Ancestral Disturbances in Stigmata	89
Chapter 4
Beloved : A Ghost Story with an Ogbanje Twist	119
Part III Preface: The Child and Ancestor Bond	151
Chapter 5
The Child Figure as a Means to Ancestral Knowledge in Daughters of the Dust and A Sunday in June	153

Conclusion
Looking Backward and Forward: The Ancestral Presence in Speculative Fiction	175
Notes	191
Bibliography	197
Index	211