

Contents

List of Maps	viii
Acknowledgements	ix
Preface to the Second Edition	xii
1 Introduction	1
The core global regions	3
The spatial dimensions of governance	6
The strategic urban planning agenda	9
The structure of the book	11
CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK
2 Global Transformation	14
The globalization debate	14
Global governance?	22
Global civil society	25
New sub-global regionalism	27
3 The World City Debate	31
The development of the world city hypothesis	32
Challenges to the world city hypothesis	34
Global economic functions and issues of space	36
The social impact of globalization on cities	38
History and convergence	40
4 Planning and Governance: Nation States, City Regions and Urban Politics	45
National contexts	45
World city regions?	49
Politics and governance in cities	50
Key planning issues for world cities	56
5 Globalizing Cities Outside the Core Global Regions	60
‘Ordinary cities’ or can there be a world city in the South?	61
Johannesburg	62
Mumbai	65
Dubai and Abu Dhabi	69
Sydney	72

NORTH AMERICA

6	Cities in the North America Region	75
	The changing system of cities	76
	The revival of central cities	78
	City-suburbs and mega-regions	80
	Higher level governance	83
7	New York: Capital of the World	88
	The governance of planning and development	90
	Building and rebuilding the capital of the world	95
	Conclusions	105
8	The Challenge to New York's World City Dominance: Toronto, Mexico City, Chicago or Los Angeles?	107
	Toronto: 'the most multicultural city in the world'	108
	Mexico City: The mega city	113
	Chicago: The 'plan for urban greatness'	117
	Los Angeles: The 'prototype' world city	121

EUROPE

9	European Integration and Competitive City Regions	127
	European cities: History, competition and a new urban hierarchy	128
	European cities: The framework of governance	134
10	London: From Fragmentation to World City Promotion	144
	Developing London as the World City	144
	Setting priorities for the new government of London from 2000	148
	A new kind of plan for the competitive era	153
	Political and economic change from 2008	158
	The city region	161
	Conclusions	163
11	Europe's World City Contenders: Paris, Berlin, Barcelona ... Istanbul?	166
	Paris: The petit quatrième	167
	Berlin: An 'alternative' world city	175
	Barcelona: Transformation through 'events'	179
	Istanbul: Mega city meets world city	183

PACIFIC ASIA

12	Pacific Asia: Strong State Leadership and Rapid Urban Transformation	187
	Regional economic volatility	189
	Developmental state	191

China enters the world stage	193
The transformation of cities	197
City governance and urban planning	202
13 Tokyo: Shaping a World City in the Face of Economic Turbulence	207
Tokyo: World city?	208
Strategic planning in the boom years of the 1980s	212
Crisis and re-globalization: Shifting attitudes about Tokyo's world city role	218
The emergence of a new national direction	220
The response of the Tokyo Metropolitan Government	222
Conclusions	228
14 Regional Competition for World City Status – Mega Projects and State-Led Visions in Singapore, Hong Kong, Shanghai and Beijing	232
Singapore: City-state and archetypal world city	235
Hong Kong: A 'gateway' under threat?	243
Shanghai: A state-led world city	251
Beijing: The creation of an 'international city'	261
CONCLUSIONS
15 Planning World Cities	269
Economic globalization, state restructuring and urban governance within the three global regions	272
Global imperative or regional difference?	280
The planning of world cities over the last thirty years: Convergence or diversity?	284
Creative planning in a complex world	289
Bibliography	293
Index	329