

CONTENTS

	Introduction	ix
1	“The Wit of One, and the Wisdom of Many”	3
	General Thoughts on the Nature of the Proverb
2	“A Proverb Is a Short Sentence of Wisdom”	18
	Popular Views of the Proverb
3	“Proverbs Everyone Ought to Know”	41
	Paremiological Minimum and Cultural Literacy
4	“Old Wisdom in New Clothing”	58
	The Proverb in the Modern Age
5	“Early to Bed and Early to Rise”	98
	From Proverb to Benjamin Franklin and Back
6	“A Picture Is Worth a Thousand Words”	135
	From Advertising Slogan to American Proverb
7	“An Apple a Day Keeps the Doctor Away”	152
	Traditional and Modern Aspects of Medical Proverbs
8	“Good Proverbs Make Good Vermonters”	173
	The Flavor of Regional Proverbs
9	“(Don’t) Throw the Baby Out with the Bath Water”	193
	The Americanization of a German Proverb and Proverbial Expression
10	“Proverbs in Nazi Germany”	225
	The Promulgation of Anti-Semitism and Stereotypes Through Folklore
	Bibliography	256
	Art Credits	271
	Indexes
	Names	273
	Subjects	276
	Proverbs	280