TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface		11
1	Why study Changes in Police Systems? The Focus of this Study	13
1	Introduction	13
2	The object of this research: police systems	14
3	The aim of this research	15
4	Central research question	16
5	Choice of the countries	16
6	Research Design	18
7	Collaboration	19
8	Research period	19
9	The structure of this study	20
2	Comparing and Analysing Changes in Police Systems: Towards a Framework	21
1	Introduction	21
2	The rational perspective	23
3	The societal perspective	24
4	The political perspective	27
5	Pressures from within: the pursuit of professionalism	28
6	System dynamics	30
7	Finally	34
3	The Police System in Belgium: Unified through Crisis Lex Cachet and Sofie De Kimpe	35
1	Introduction	35
2	Belgium as State	35
3	Contemporary police system	37
4	History of the current Belgian police system	43
5	Current police system: an evaluation	50
6	Prospects for the near future	54
7	Summary	57

4	The Police System in Denmark: Towards a Completion of the National Police	59
	Peter Kruize and Theo Jochoms
1	Introduction	59
2	The State and Legal System	60
3	Current police system of Denmark	62
3.1	Authority over the police	63
3.2	Basic structure of the police	64
3.3	Police tasks and duties	65
3.4	Some numbers	66
3.5	Administrative accountability	67
3.6	Police and local community	68
3.7	Private policing	70
4	History of the police system	71
4.1	The change of 1938: Towards a national police force	71
4.2	The change of 1973: From 72 to 54 police districts	72
4.3	The change of 2007: from 54 to 12 police districts	73
4.3.1	1998-2002	74
4.3.2	2003-2007	76
4.4	Major changes in the system	79
5	Evaluation of the Current Police System	84
5.1	Performance indicators	85
5.2	Citizens' views on the police	85
5.3	Advantages and disadvantages of larger police districts	86
5.4	Cooperation with strategic partners	86
6	Future prospects	87
5	The Police System in England & Wales: A New Era in Policing	89
	Trevor Jones and Arie van Sluis
1	Introduction	89
2	The state structure of the United Kingdom	90
3	The organisation and structure of policing in England & Wales	92
3.1	Regional police forces	92
3.2	Basic Command Units and neighbourhood teams	93
3.3	Police agencies at the national level	94
4	Democratic steering and control of the police: The tripartite structure	95
4.1	The system prior to 2012	95
4.2	Reforms to police governance post-2012	99
5	Recent themes in police reform in England & Wales	102
5.1	Modernisation and professionalisation of the police	102
5.2	Civilianization	102
5.3	Specialism and professionalism	103

5.4	Police management and the management structure	104
5.5	Post 2010 reforms: modernising the police organisation	104
5.6	Centralisation	105
5.7	Police performance management	108
5.8	Localism in policing	109
5.9	Pluralism in policing	110
6	Assessing police reforms	112
6.1	Waves in police reform	112
6.2	The impact of performance management	113
6.3	Police reform and the governance of the police	115
6.4	Localism	116
7	Future prospects	116
8	Summary	117
6	The Police System in Germany: Police Organisation, Management and Reform in North Rhine-Westphalia	119
	Bernhard Frevel and Philipp Kuschewski
1	Introduction	119
2	The state structure of Germany	120
3	Police and Policing in Germany	121
3.1	The federal level	121
3.2	The state level	122
3.3	The local level	123
3.4	The governance of the police: Important actors	124
3.5	The Public Prosecutor	125
3.6	The mayor	125
3.7	Police advisory councils	126
4	The history of police reform in North Rhine-Westphalia	126
4.1	1945-1953: Restoration of the Police System	126
4.2	1953-1972: Technical modernisation and confirmation of the civilian role of the police	127
4.3	1972-1980: Extension of the police apparatus and improvement of police training and education	127
4.4	1980-1990: Social challenges for the Police Culture	128
4.5	Since 1990: The police in the service era	129
5	The Police in North Rhine-Westphalia – Important aspects of reforming the Police	131
5.1	Recent developments of the police structure	131
5.2	Police structure since 2007	135
5.3	Changing the Management of the Police	137
6	Police system reform in North Rhine-Westphalia: A preliminary assessment	139
6.1	The structure of the organisation	140

6.2	The external structure	141
6.3	The governance of the police	142
6.4	Changes of the police system?	144
7	Future prospects	146
8	Summary	147
7	The Police System in the Netherlands: Towards a National Police Force	149
	Lex Cachet and Anne Sey
1	Introduction	149
2	The Dutch state structure	149
3	The Dutch regional police system	151
3.1	Regional police forces	151
3.2	Internal organisation of the regional forces	152
3.3	Governance of the police: national level	152
3.4	Steering and control of the police: regional and local level	153
3.5	Safety policies	155
3.6	Authority and Management (Gezag en beheer)	156
3.7	Relations between police regions	157
3.8	Policy cycle	157
4	A short history of police system change in the Netherlands	158
4.1	Fragmentation	158
4.2	Slowly mounting tensions	159
4.3	Breakthrough 1989	160
4.4	Goals of the system change	161
5	Assessment of the regional police system	162
5.1	Why was the reorganisation process successful?	162
5.2	Intended results and effects of the reorganisation	163
5.3	Political context	164
5.4	Bottlenecks and negative effects of the reorganisation	164
5.5	The discussion on the police system after 1993	167
6	From criticism to change?	168
6.1	Attempts at new legislation	168
6.2	1998-2002	169
6.3	2002-2005	170
6.4	2005-2008	172
6.5	2008-2012	173
7	Towards a national police force	174
7.1	Preparations for the establishment of a national police force	174
7.2	Outline of the proposed governance and organisation of the national police	176
8	Summary	177

8	Explaining Changes in Police Systems	179
1	Introduction	179
2	The organisation and the governance of the police	180
3	Change patterns	183
4	Explaining changes in police systems	187
4.1	The rational perspective	187
4.2	The political perspective	193
4.3	The societal perspective	197
4.4	The impact of professionalism in policing	200
4.5	The institutional perspective	202
5	Concluding	204
9	Changing Police Systems	207
1	Changes and change patterns	207
2	The organisation and the governance structure of the police	210
3	Increasing professionalism	213
4	Divergence and convergence between police systems	215
5	An uncontested police system?	217
References		219
List of respondents		231
Het groene gras		233
About the authors		235